War Comes Back.
Shall We Keep Out?
Must We Meddle?
Gen. Mitchell's Warning.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—WAR IS NOT pleasant. Some thousands of American soldiers, and their mothers, made that discovery a few years ago.

The unfortunate, unprepared and defenseless Chinese in Shanghai, Harbin and elsewhere are learning what the inhabitants of European cities learned in "the big war."

BOMBS FROM Japanese airplanes are dropping in Shanghai at intervals of about 20 minutes.

Houses are burning, flames are spreading, unchecked. One Japanese bomb started a fire in the European Settlement, but this was "not intentional." The bomb was badly aimed.

IN FEW WORDS an Associated Press dispatch from Shanghai shows what airplane war is.

"Witnesses returning to the International Settlement describe horrible scenes at the dressing stations (Places where the doctors attend to the wounded), which for the most part were filled with civilians. Among the dead brought in, they said, were a number of babies and bodies of children riddled by bullets."

While we are handing out two billions of dollars to heal financial wounds in high circles, wouldn't it be a good idea to find money for airplanes, real ones, with high speed, in case war should reach this country?

That might happen, with our State Department stirring up Japan with all the tact of a Galapagos turtle, while pulling chestnuts out of the fire for European nations.

JAPAN SENT her deadly airplanes to Shanghai with no difficulty. They were carried on ships and released to do their work. Two more Japanese airplane carriers sailed for Shanghai yesterday, the Kaga and the Hoscho.

As easily as Japan sends airplanes to Shanghai, Europe or Asia could send them to New York, Boston, Washington, D. C., San Francisco, Seattle, Los Angeles or San Diego.

THESE WEST COAST cities are especially interested in the possibility of trouble spreading from Asia, since the first blows would be struck here. They should interest themselves in their own defense, not relying entirely on protection from Washington, D. C.

That interesting capital city is so busy stirring up Asia, and nursing Europe, that it has had little time to think about the United States.

Our plan, like that of the Chinese, seems to be "wait until trouble comes." We did that last time, and our dollar a year "patrioteers" spent a billion dollars on ships that couldn't be given away afterward, and another billion on airplanes that wouldn't fly.

WE STILL HAVE that brood of patriots on hand and they retain their power.

The American people, particularly in these western states, should do some thinking and acting for themselves, the action to include building pursuit and bombing airplanes, as part of their state equipment.

They couldn't make a better investment.

THIS COLUMN has talked frequently about our lack of adequate defense, and the stupidity of making aviation a subordinate branch of the Army or Navy, while other nations have separate air forces under separate management.

This column has also, during years past, protested repeatedly against squandering savings of Americans by persuading them to invest in worthless foreign bonds.

TO WHAT HAS been said here about aviation, the reply has been:

"What can a newspaper man know about national defense?"

And to statements printed here about dumping billions of American dollars in exchange for worthless foreign bonds, the reply has been:

"What can a newspaper man know about finance?"

THOSE THAT BOUGHT the bonds can answer the second question.

The airplane question is answered in a letter that this writer has just received from Gen. William Mitchell. He is no "mere newspaper man," having been in full charge of our aircraft forces in the big war. What he writes is offered for the consideration of readers and the national government.

"Regarding aeronautics, you may publish anything I have written you. Our condition is deplorable. I visited Selfridge Field during my vacation in Detroit. This is the station of the First Pursuit Group. Pursuit aviation is designed to seek out, catch up with and destroy enemy aircraft. For that purpose we must have the fastest and best-gunned machines possible to produce.

"The squadron should have 24 airplanes each, or 100 to the group. I found there five airplanes to the squadron, of different kinds and conditions. THEY ARE FROM 25 TO 65 MILES SLOWER THAN THE PURSUIT AIRPLANES USED IN EUROPE OR JAPAN. THEIR GUNS ARE NOT MUCH. They are entirely inferior to anything we might have to go up against.

"The personnel is simply disgusted with conditions. They neither have equipment nor any incentive. Men who served in the war 13 years ago are still lieutenants. Old doddering men are commanding the air units where we should

Americans Flee Nanking; Japan's Troops Repulsed

CHIEFS CALL NATION TO ARMS

More Troops Rushed for Defense; Demonstrators Urge Resistance Policy

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The correspondent of Reuters News Agency at Shanghai said today in a dispatch from Nanking that the Chinese national government had decided to declare war on Japan.

The correspondent said the decision to declare war was reached in a council of the highest government officials, but that the declaration itself was not yet issued.

TROOPS RUSHED

NANKING, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, former president of China, sent a telegram to the military commanders throughout the country today urging that preparations be taken to defend China and "to fight for her national existence."

Trainloads of troops belonging to the 19th Chinese Army began leaving here for Shanghai as fast as possible tonight, sent off by rousing cheers from thousands of onlookers, who carried banners inscribed:

"Resist the invaders!" Hold Shanghai at all costs!"

Meantime, authorities were strengthening the defensive works of Nanking itself and troops were being rushed here from other points to replace those sent to Shanghai.

The government issued a vigorous statement denouncing the Japanese attack on the Chapei sector and urging the signatories to the league covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty to take immediate and effective measures so that "justice and international obligations may not be trampled beneath the heel of Japanese militarism."

Crisis Developments

Associated Press.

The grim spectre of war arose over China late today as Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, the Chinese military hero, and former President, sent telegrams to his lieutenants urging that they prepare to defend China and fight for her national existence.

At the same time a Reuters News Agency dispatch to Shanghai from Nanking said the highest government officials, meeting in a council, had decided to declare war on Japan.

The echo of the war cry was heard at Tokio, where a war office spokesman, referring to China's decision to evoke more drastic sections of the League of Nations covenant at Geneva, said the league council "must bear a terrible responsibility" if, through its action, "a world conflagration" should be precipitated.

The American consular authorities at Nanking ordered all American citizens to be ready to evacuate the city within two hours.

At Shanghai, in the meantime, the bloody battle which raged over the Chapei sector for 36 hours, lulled during the afternoon, and thousands of bloody and torn Chinese refugees scuttled out of the section to take refuge in the International Settlement.

Two additional Japanese aircraft carriers arrived in Shanghai harbor this afternoon.

British and American residents of the International Settlement protested to the Settlement consular officials, declaring the Japanese naval staff was using the Settlement as a base for its attack upon the Chinese.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations at Geneva, offered the league council a proposal calling for an investigation of the events at Shanghai by a commission to be made up of representatives of all the powers represented there.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 31.—Sunday, 12:40 a. m.)—(INS.)—United States Marines went into action in the Markham road area here early today and arrested 14 armed Japanese civilians. The Japanese were caught in the act of firing into Chinese territory over the heads of Americans, using the latter as shields to protect themselves.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Admiral Pratt said today the entire Asiatic fleet has been ordered to stand by to evacuate or protect American lives in China.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30.—A 15-year-old American boy named Johnson was arrested by Japanese troops here today on charges of sniping.

The youth lives with his parents at No. 2 Scott road, within the danger area.

Japanese troops raided a Chinese shop next door, wrecking the place in search of arms and ammunition.

Finding nothing of an incriminating nature, they entered the Johnson house.

There, the Japanese declared, they found a .45 caliber automatic pistol and a number of empty shells.

The pistol was the property of young Johnson's father, a member of the Shanghai volunteers.

The accused boy was taken to Japanese Marine headquarters.

Edwin R. Cunningham, American consul-general, immediately opened negotiations for his release.

U. S. CITIZENS TOLD TO FLEE

NANKING, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—American consular authorities here at 7 p. m. tonight ordered all American citizens to be ready to evacuate the city within two hours.

The American residents were ordered to gather at specified concentration points in the event of any emergency that might grow out of the situation at Shanghai.

The American consulate arranged a system of flashlight signals by means of which it could keep United States naval vessels in the Yangtse informed of events in the city.

The United States government has one destroyer—the Simpson—at Nanking, which would be available for the evacuation of Americans from that city. It carries 115 men and six officers and would be able to take about 100 civilians out of the area.

AMERICA READY TO USE FORCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A pyramiding accounts of horror at Shanghai reached here, President Hoover kept himself advised and there was no denying that strength should be used if imperative for the safety of American citizens.

Overnight reports were carried to the White House early by Undersecretary Castle, of the State Department.

At the Navy, meanwhile, officials correlated numbers of other dispatches, but officials were extremely reticent to discuss alternatives facing the government.

Col. Richard S. Hooker, commanding the Marines in the suspense-ridden International Settlement, notified his superiors that Japanese civilian volunteers were burning buildings.

He also reported that "agreement reached through the agency of British and American consuls for a truce failed to halt a vicious all-night battle on the 29th (Shanghai time)."

PEIPING, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Capt. Charles Baker, American barge skipper held by Chinese Communist bandits, will be beheaded unless his abductors are given $10,000,000. TOKIO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A spokesman for the Japanese war office said tonight the League of Nations Council "must bear a terrible responsibility if through its action a situation between China and Japan should develop" which would precipitate "a world conflagration."

7 Jailed In Strike Killing

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 30.—Five Fayette County deputy sheriffs, the superintendent of the Pittsburgh Coal Company mine at Arnold City and a coal and iron policeman were in jail here today on charges of murder and authorities were searching for another coal company patrolman and another deputy in connection with the shooting last June 23 of Mike Pilipovich, slain during a mine strike demonstration.

Those under arrest are Supt. Ernest Barnes, of Arnold City; James Buttermore, coal and iron policeman; and Ted Hunt, Roy Ingram, Wesley Fisher, Donald Royster and Jess Cisley, deputy sheriffs.

Warrants were issued yesterday for the arrest of nine men by Alderman Frank Foster, of Uniontown, at the request of District Attorney Wade Newell on information received from Pilipovich's 20-year-old widow. All were previously exonerated of blame in the killing of Pilipovich at an inquest held by Coroner S. A. Baltz.

Pilipovich, shot down as he emerged from his Arnold City home, according to witnesses, had no part in the strike disorder which flared up suddenly on the morning of June 23.

eanwhile Japanese Marines ...ght again entered the International Settlement, the supposedly inviolate foreign business and residential area of Shanghai. The French reserve battalions stationed at Tonkin have been ordered to stand by for movement to the International Settlement.

Furious fighting broke out in the Dixwell road area of Shanghai late this afternoon, just outside the International Settlement at its extreme north.

Citizens of foreign countries evacuated their homes and places of business throughout the district as wide-spread panic ensued.

HEAVY FIGHTING

It was the heaviest land fighting of the present Japanese invasion, the Chinese being particularly effective with great Stokes mortars whose shells exploded with reverberations heard for miles.

The International Settlement itself was endangered, and reinforcements for defense troops were rushed to help hold the boundary lines.

The former Chinese president Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek protested to members of the foreign consulates the use of the foreign Settlement by the Japanese as a base for operations.

The clash broke out shortly before 4:00 p. m.

A resumption of Japanese bombing activities over the smouldering ruins of the Chapei district was expected momentarily. The Chinese held on to the area stubbornly, and the Japanese announced they would send planes over the area again, if it were not cleared of Chinese soldiers.

Residents of the eastern districts of Shanghai flocked toward the central district of the International Settlement, carrying bedding and children and leading buffalos. Curiously, the buffalos were the calmest of all.

It was impossible to estimate the number of dead of either side.

Hospitals were crowded with injured, and many were turned away. The casualties among both dead and wounded included many civilians.

Reports were received from Nanking that Japanese warships were bombarding the flying field and aerodrome there. Although the reports were not confirmed, Japanese here said they might well be true, since they did not wish the Chinese to use their air facilities as a base for an air attack.

BRITISH WOUNDED

Two Scots Fusiliers were wounded in the International Settlement by snipers who followed the Japanese as they retreated from the North Station area. Meanwhile, these Scots were reinforced by the arrival of 3,000 British troops of the Wiltshire regiment, adding considerably to the British garrison forces.

Food supplies in the Hongkew area were delayed, threatening a serious situation.

A general strike was declared, although only partially effective. Chinese constables were withdrawn from the roads.

Japanese were unable to control gunmen who ruled the streets, creating a reign of terror.

In this afternoon's attack north of the Settlement, a large Chinese motion picture theater on North Szechuen road, bordering the Settlement road, was set afire and was blazing furiously at dusk.

Chinese stated the fire was caused by Japanese, who poured kerosene on the building to drive out snipers operating from there.

Japanese officially stated the theater was hit by a Chinese shell.

While the Chapei section still smouldered from the flames which devastated it yesterday and today, the Japanese planned another bombing attack upon the area.

Both Chinese and Japanese snipers and machine gunners were active, and no one's life was safe upon the area's streets.

Stray shells from the North Station area fell in the Hongkew district of the International Settlement, causing grave alarm.

WRECK LAW SCHOOL

Japanese completely wrecked a law school and damaged a high school of the Hongkew district which belonged to the American Presbyterian Mission South. Forcing their entrance on the plea they were looking for Chinese snipers and arms, the Japanese wantonly damaged the fittings and furniture, dragging the students from their beds and turning them into the streets.

The mission protested to the American consul, Edwin S. Cunningham.

Considering their present forces inadequate, the municipal council of the International Settlement issued an urgent appeal for 200 more volunteers to aid in defending the Settlement boundaries.

One hundred Italian marines were landed from the warship Libya tonight and went into line on the International Settlement boundary between the Jessfield and Ferry roads.

The Japanese were taking vigorous but somewhat ineffective action to suppress Chinese plain-clothes gunmen within the International Settlement.

Japanese police arrested 22 men, who were pushing wheelbarrows through the streets in what appeared to be a procession of market men. The wheelbarrows were found to be full of firearms concealed beneath vegetables.

The fate of the arrested men is not known, but it is presumed they were immediately executed.

Japan to Rush New Army to Shanghai

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Jan. 30.—Japan tonight was expected to send an expeditionary army to Shanghai within the next 48 hours.

This was the general belief among foreign military attaches, who watched the government closely for an announcement expected within a day. They said the dispatch of an army was inevitable.

The general staff met to consider the situation reported from Shanghai by Consul General Murai, who said that the naval forces now there were inadequate to cope with the unexpected strength of the Chinese resistance.

A Shanghai military attache cabled a report to the same effect.

Admiral Shiosawa, in charge of the Japanese fleet at Shanghai, said he could handle the situation, although he admitted his sailors were at a distinct disadvantage in the street fighting, for which they are untrained.

The chief objection to an immediate dispatch of soldiers was the fact that international complications would be certain to arise.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Two masked men escaped with money and jewels valued at $10,000 in a daylight robbery of the Beverly Hills home of John Francis Dillon, motion picture director.

PLAN TO TRAIN CHINESE FLIERS

Establishment of a flying school in Pittsburgh to train young Chinese aviators for service in the Orient was launched here yesterday by Roy F. Quill, reserve colonel of the Chinese Army and a World War veteran. He resides in Wilkinsburg. The school will be established under auspices of the Chinese Defensive Association. It is hoped to train at least 50 aviators for service at the front within the next three months. The officer said:

"The United States is the only nation China can trust. The Nanking government considers the League of Nations 'bunk.' It looks toward and expects the United States to intervene and stop Japan's invasion of Manchuria."

Funds to establish the school are now being sought.

DAVIS TO SEEK PREPAREDNESS

China's lack of preparedness was deplored by Senator James J. Davis last night in an address before members of the United Spanish War Veterans in the Fort Pitt Hotel. He said:

"You cannot in this day and age leave your country unprepared. You have to make sure that you are protected against anyone that might attack you.

PITTSBURGHERS IMPERILED IN BATTLE ZONE

Six Missionaries Among Many Menaced by Japan's Invasion of Shanghai Area

Anxiety was felt today for scores of Pittsburghers, including six missionaries of the Pittsburgh Bible Institute now believed to be in the danger zone in Shanghai.

Those believed to be in the war zone are the Rev. Myra Smith, acting superintendent of the Evangelization Society of the Pittsburgh Bible Institute, in charge of the missionaries in China; the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Stouppe, the Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Maston and Miss Ida M. Abel, who sailed from Vancouver, B. C., for China January 16.

LECTURED IN U. S.

Miss Abel, of Orchard street, Bellevue, who recently was ordained to the gospel ministry, sailed for China after a nine-month lecture tour throughout the United States on conditions in the Orient. Miss Abel was affiliated with the Bible institute for seven years before giving up her executive position with a large concern. She had been engaged in missionary work in China for eight years.

During the years in the Far East, Miss Abel had cared for many wounded, including Americans, in the many outbreaks that have occurred there.

From Acting Superintendent Smith, the Rev. and Mrs. Maston and the Rev. and Mrs. Stouppe, no word had been received. Prayer services for their safety are being offered.

The Rev. Maston's home is in Wisconsin and his wife, Margaret, formerly lived in Canonsburg. The Rev. Stouppe's parents live in Crafton and the parents of his wife, Olive Stouppe, live in Munhall.

OTHERS IN DANGER

Other Pittsburghers in the danger zone are:

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Morton Espey, and daughter, Mary Frances Espey, teachers in the Lowrie Institute of Shanghai. The Rev. Espey's mother and sister reside in Sandusky street, North Side.

Mrs. Dorothy Davis Alton and son, Tommy, 3, daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Davis, of 115 Centennial avenue, Sewickley. They reside in the French concession.

700 DEFY RAIN TO HEAR COX

By DAVE JONES
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—More than 700 persons stood in a driving rain outside the small frame church at Leisenring last night, to hear the Rev. James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, tell of the fight for employment he and his army of jobless have launched.

Father Cox had been invited to speak at Leisenring by his former classmate at St. Vincent College, the Rev. E. Otto Planitzer, pastor of St. Vincent De Paul's Church. Crowds came from towns within a radius of 10 miles.

Speaking on the words of Jesus that "The Poor Will Always Be With Us," Father Cox said:

"Many of us are poor through no fault of our own. Some are born with physical or mental handicaps. Others, strong and intellectual, cannot get ahead because of the sins of the rich and powerful. If the wealthy and powerful would live by the Golden Rule the world would be a better place to live in."

GREAT SUCCESS OF AUTO SHOW HERE SEEN

Attendance Record Likely As Motorists Turn Out For 'Grand Finale' Today

Pittsburgh's annual Auto Show will close at 11 o'clock tonight, with its sponsors confident it will set an all-time attendance record. Attendance at the 1932 show, which opened last Saturday in Motor Square Garden, already is more than 10 per cent ahead of last year, according to W. N. Owings, secretary of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association.

Buying interest at the show has been keener than at any time since 1929, a survey of the dealers represented disclosed.

"Billy" Sunday, noted evangelist who visited the Garden yesterday, told the thousands of visitors that the lowest priced car exhibited was far better than the highest priced cars he had seen at shows only a few years ago.

The show management will give away the last of seven cars to someone in the audience at 10 o'clock tonight.

The grand finale of "show week" will feature Walker Moore and his orchestra and Catherine Redfield, operatic star, in two programs today, afternoon and evening.

Unusual attendance at this year's show is attributed to the size and quality of the exhibit which includes 27 different makes of cars and many body styles, together with a complete exhibit of accessories and commercial bodies on the sub-floor of the building.

Secretary Owings today said he believed the show would do much to launch Pittsburgh's automotive business on a prosperous year and would contribute much to a general pickup in business.

It is followed by high pressure, spreading rapidly eastward from a crest centered over Saskatchewan, and extending southward over the plains states. The disturbance produced light to moderately heavy rains over most of the states east of the Mississippi. It is now showing at scattered places in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The temperature change was towards rising over the Atlantic coast states, while cold weather spread eastward over the plains states and Mississippi Valley states to the Appalachian Mountains. The temperatures are now below zero over all the country from the Great Lakes westward to Idaho and as far south as Northern Kansas. Cold weather will prevail over this section during the next several days.

Rose Allen to Be Neutral Witness in Death Trial

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Rose Allen will be a neutral witness at the trial of her brother, Edward, for the killing of Francis A. Donaldson III, she said yesterday. Through her attorney Elmer A. Schroeder, she declared:

"I am an impartial, neutral witness. I will not testify in favor of either side.

"I have been subpenaed by the Commonwealth but my story will be the same as if I had been called by the defense. I will answer any questions put to me and will tell only the truth."

Thus she answered a query that has been paramount in the minds of close followers of the case. Donaldson was killed with a shotgun fired by Allen. The shooting followed a quarrel in the Allen apartment over attentions Donaldson had been paying Miss Allen.

The latter, the day after the shooting, said she held her father and brother responsible.

On several occasions she has visited her brother in the Montgomery County Jail. Frequently she has conferred with Stewart Nase, District Attorney. The trial opens Monday.

When Allen was indicted for murder, Thursday, Miss Allen appeared before the grand jury. She left immediately without seeing her brother.

MT. LEBANON WIFE, SUED, TELLS OF ARMY LIQUOR PARTIES

OFFICERS SHUN TESTIMONY IN SUIT HERE

Aid Refused Hernandez, Says Counsel as Hearing Ends; Suicide Attempts Told

Army officers of high rank, as well as members of a leading family of Porto Rico, refused to testify through depositions because they did not wish to become involved in the divorce suit of Maj. Pedro A. Hernandez, U. S. A. divisional adjutant in Pittsburgh, against Rachel M. Hernandez, of Lebanon Hall apartments, Mt. Lebanon.

Attorney Louis Little, representing Mrs. Hernandez, admitted this last night at the conclusion of the hearing before Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court, when Attorney Jacob Shulgold, representing Maj. Hernandez, demanded depositions which Little had asked permission to take three months ago.

TRIED TO END LIFE

Testimnoy of drinking parties in Army circles was given by Mrs. Hernandez, contesting the suit, and she admitted she had twice attempted suicide because her husband's love had cooled and he had ordered her out of his house.

Former Chief Justice Jose Hernandez, 81, of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico, father of the major, and other members of the family, who are friendly to her, Mrs. Hernandez testified, as well as Col. and Mrs. S. Jarvis Bain, formerly engineering officer in charge of the Pittsburgh district, Col. and Mrs. William Robinson and Col. and Mrs. Eben Swift, were among those who declined to testify by deposition, because the suit would adversely affect them, Little asserted.

BOTH CHARGE DRINKING

Mutual accusations of intoxication and denials were preferred by Maj. and Mrs. Hernandez, both relating incidents in Porto Rico, New York, San Francisco and Pittsburgh. The major said he is a patient in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, because of a nervous breakdown brought about by his wife's treatment of him.

He said he met his wife, a cabaret entertainer, at Panama and married her May 23, 1919. He served overseas and was assigned to Pittsburgh as tactical instructor of reserves, with the 99th Infantry Reserve.

Mrs. Hernandez testified:

"We separated March 30. He left a note on the table telling me to go where I pleased, with a check for $150. Afterwards he cut my allowance from $150 to $100 monthly.

"He knocked me down once and blacked my eye. I was so broken up I tried suicide twice."

Mrs. Hernandez said she suspected the Major of association with Emily Duck, of Washington, D. C.

NEW EFFICIENCY IN WELFARE SOUGHT

Emergency Council Here Acts to End Duplication Of Work by Centralization

A week-end devoted to missionary work for the Emergency Community Council in various localities throughout the city was planned by welfare workers sponsoring the council today, following initial conference yesterday.

The council will attempt to eliminate duplication of relief work by setting up a clearing house of case records and will attempt, through localized surveys, to estimate future relief and welfare needs in the city and county.

First meetings were held yesterday under the leadership of Miss Isabel Kennedy, of the Federation of Social Agencies, in the Wabash Building headquarters of the federation. Representatives of group work establishments in many parts of the city, settlement houses, Christian associations, educational organizations, met to consider best course of procedure.

Work will be confined to the city until the Council is well launched. Twenty-two districts have been tentatively outlined in Pittsburgh. Among them are the Manchester, East North Side, Woods Run, East End, Hill, Soho, Squirrel Hill, Downtown and Hazelwood districts.

Community leaders not represented at the meeting were to be canvassed in many districts over the week-end and further preliminary meetings will be conducted Monday and Tuesday.

It is proposed to have several of the organizations functioning by the end of next week or the early part of the following week. Volunteers and persons from the present group work agencies will attempt to handle the job.

"THE END OF THE LINE"

2 GIRLS HURT, QUIZ OPENS

Investigation of the reported injury of two Pitcairn school children in a tubular fire escape at Public School No. 2, Agatha street, Pitcairn, is to be started at once under the direction of Supervising Inspector A. P. Huckestein, of the State Department of Labor and Industry.

A steel chute about two feet in diameter has openings on the third and fourth floors of the building. This type of chute has not been finally approved by the State Industrial Board, Huckestein said. It is the first of its kind in Pennsylvania and was installed at Pitcairn by authority of the state board as a test, he declared.

The two children said to have received injuries are Dorothy Jane Smith, 11, of 353 Second street, Pitcairn, now in Braddock General Hospital, and Alma Yingling, of 512 Center avenue, Pitcairn. According to her parents, Dorothy Smith was injured as the result of colliding with another pupil in the chute in a fire drill in December.

UTILITIES KEEP BOOM RATES IN SLUMP

Huge Tax Paid by Consumers Goes to Stockholders After Return by Government

Living costs in Pittsburgh have come down 10.7 per cent in the past year, from December of 1930 to December of 1931.

But assisting in this decreased cost, estimated by the United States Department of Labor, the Duquesne Light Company has contributed nothing in the way of rate reductions, nor have the other subsidiaries of the Philadelphia Company.

Food has fallen nearly 16 per cent, clothing 9½ per cent, rent more than 11 per cent and house furnishings approximately 13 per cent. In the same period the classification of "fuel and light" has shown a reduction of less than 1 per cent, and that reduction has been brought about principally by decreased prices for coal.

Rate payers might be amazed at one bit of testimony brought out before a committee of the state Legislature last winter, when C. S. Mitchell, then controller of the Duquesne Light Company, was on the stand.

He was asked about tax refunds secured from the federal government by the Duquesne Light Company. The amount was $1,137,322.05, covering the years 1917 to 1923, inclusive. Included in this amount was interest on the refund, about 50 per cent. Report of this refund was made in 1930.

In testimony it was brought out that the rate payers had been paying this tax, charged as one of the items of operating expense of the Duquesne Light Company, from year to year.

But when the refund was made did the rate payer who had been carrying the burden all those years profit? He did not. The refund went to stockholders of the Duquesne Light Company, who took a double profit, because the Duquesne Light Company had also for those years been earning a sizeable percentage of return based on an outlay of money which later returned to it.

INQUIRY BARES UTILITY PROFITS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Reorganization of the Penn Central Light and Power Company, serving Central Pennsylvania, and profits accruing to its parent concern, the National Electric Power Company, through various transactions, were detailed yesterday before the Federal Trade Commission.

A commission accountant, Aaron J. Hughes, testified the National Electric gained a profit of $150,065 in buying seven independent utilities and reselling them to the Penn Central several years ago. He named the companies as the Bedford, Brown Township, Blacklick Township, Everett and Lilly Light, Heat and Power Companies, the Portage Light and Power and the Shippensburg Gas and Electric Company.

All seven were purchased, Hughes told the commission, for $2,405,918 and sold to the Penn Central for $2,555,984.

GRAFT IN CITIES CHARGED BY REFORMER

Dr. John Haynes Holmes Asserts Municipal System Of Government Has Failed

The Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, New York, champion of civil liberties and exposer of municipal corruption, might have paraphrased the title of a popular dramatic piece in an address before the Friday Morning Club of the League of Women Voters as "Grafting Becomes Elections."

Speaking from the rostrum in Carnegie Music Hall, Dr. Holmes denounced graft and politics summing up his address with these startling words:

"We are corrupt and we are contented."

He declared civilization as it is today is founded on dishonesty and asserted he spoke with the authority of an individual who had to deal with "all kinds of thieves," even in preaching the word of God. He said:

"The failure of the municipal administration is the greatest indictment against American Democracy."

Politics, he defined as "public plunder for private profit" and declared the only solution was a complete change in the "system." He advocated abolition of all political parties and, speaking only once of Pittsburgh and its municipal affairs, said:

"It will do you no good to throw out your Republican mayor and put in a Democrat. It will be all the same, I'd venture to say—what you really need is a complete change."

He spoke briefly on experiments with city managers in other cities and pointed to Milwaukee as an ideal municipal government under Socialistic regime.

Interest this week in the social world is concentrated on the wedding this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock of popular Eleanor Rowe, daughter of the Wallace Hurtte Rowes, of Morewood avenue, and Nelson Vance Harper, son of the Samuel Williams Harpers, of Wheeling. The ceremony will be in the Rowe home at 5:30 o'clock.

Last night the Robert B. Duggans, of Toronto, the H. B. Collamores, of Hartford, Conn.; the C. B. Dunbars, of Augusta, Ga., all brother-in-laws and sisters of the bride-to-be, and the junior Wallace Hurtte Rowes, her brother and sister-in-law, gave the rehearsal dinner in the young Rowes home, Fox Chapel road.

Today Wilhelmina Balken and the David A. Coopers gave the wedding breakfast in the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. Cooper was Virginia Furey before her marriage to Dr. Cooper last summer.

There'll be a meeting this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Benno Janssen, Darlington road, of the motor corps committee of the Pittsburgh Red Cross. Miss Mary Burchfield is chairman of the corps.

Following the concert last night given by Sigrid Onegin in Carnegie Music Hall, Dr. Charles Heinroth, for a number of years president of the Art Society which brought Onegin here, and Mrs. Heinroth, held a reception. The Heinroths will leave shortly to live in New York.

One could hardly reconcile the outburst of enthusiasm last night with an Art Society audience. It was in Carnegie Music Hall and the occasion was Sigrid Onegin's song recital, the like of which was until now unknown to this generation. Almost a hundred years ago they said "Ah! Malibran!" In our youth they said, "Ah! Lilli Lehmann!" Henceforth they will say "Ah! Onegin!" and it will mean that this contralto is the peer among singers.

Mr Lissfelt

Vocally, Onegin refrained last night from all display of what we might name her soprano register; she came to us as we first knew her voice, a contralto of mighty range, power and beauty. We have never been ignorant of her musical intellect; we were only convinced again and beyond measure.

From the intensely dramatic heights of Verdi's "Macbeth" to the comic folk song she passes with a sure hand. And when she essays a song like Brahms' "Von Ewiger Liebe" we have a work in which the music per se is read with an authority such as is almost unknown today among interpretive musicians.

In such a song characterizations are completely vivid; moods are suggested so subtly that one's own heart throbs in anxious response; and phrases are modelled that might be the envy of every instrumentalist.

What music Onegin brings us! Neglected songs of the great Robert Franz, whom other singers avoid because they cannot adapt their voices to his lovely melodies. Schubert songs like broadly-painted canvases or delicate aquarelles full of the spirit of well-being. And then folk songs from every land, that have been equaled in swift change of color only by the dancer Ruth St. Denis when she brings us the life of the Orient.

The supreme moment of the concert, however, was the singing of the two airs from "Macbeth." The fantasy of this music alone is overwhelming. Read through Onegin's imagination, it left her audience in awe. It was the greatest dramatic singing we have had in Pittsburgh since Lehmann; those who have heard Lehmann at her best insist that Onegin was better. She is an institution now. May there never pass a winter when we cannot hear this voice!

Rudolph Reutter again was her faithful accompanist, ever watchful, ever the musician, and modestly right. As encores we relished Brahms' "Der Schmied" most. There was a delightful French folk song, and at the end Mozart's "Alleluiah." That is the way the audience doubtless felt about it.

The concert also marked the departure of Dr. Heinroth as president of the Art Society. John E. Nelson spoke of Dr. Heinroth's services to our community and made him Godspeed with a beautiful and substantial gift.

NEW DATA GIVEN ON WASHINGTON

Traducers' Tales Held Based on Propaganda

From recently discovered articles published in the Charleston, S. C., Gazette of 1754, new light was thrown on George Washington and his Great Meadows compaign by the Rev. Dr. William Blake Hindman when he spoke before the 270 members and guests of the Allegheny County Federation yesterday.

Dr. Hindman charges that recent biographies traducing Washington were based on propaganda published by the French government in 1756, two years after the campaign. The new articles, from which Dr. Hindman quoted yesterday, were apparently written by a participant in the events of the campaign and were published within a few days of their occurence. The speaker showed the historical significance and far-reaching effect of the Battle of Fort Necessity—it was the first active, effective and practical co-operation of the colonies with each other; it was the beginning of the French and Indian War which determined that the Western World should be Anglo-Saxon; it marked the beginning of the Seven Years' War, to pay for which the colonies were taxed so heavily that the American War for Independence was declared, and it was the first real battle of Washington's military career.

Dr. Hindman is chairman of the executive committee of the Fort Necessity Memorial Association, of which project he also spoke yesterday.

Fifty-eight clubs were represented at the meeting, which was held in Kaufmann's auditorium, where the decorations were in keeping with the Washington Bicentennial celebration. Music consisted of compositions of Marianne Genet, sung by Sara Jamison Logan, Marjorie Evans Stewart, Charles Hall, Aden K. Lowther, Herbert Rhinehart and Brabazon Rutherford, with Miss Genet at the piano.

Reports showing progress in all lines of company work were heard and election brought into office Mrs. Robert K. Cochrane, as first vice president; Mrs. T. S. Loring, secretary, and these district vice presidents, Mrs. H. D. Stark, Mrs. P. A. Love, Mrs. J. A. Geeler, Mrs. George P. Murray and Mrs. Don V. Sawhill. Four new clubs, raising the total of new ones to 15 for the year, were admitted.

The Keystone Association for Historical Research was the hostess club and Mrs. H. J. Fox, county president, presided.

Something new in Dickens programs will be presented Monday night at the Dickens Fellowship dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel when Mrs. Sarah C. Pettit gives her paper on "The Dogs of Dickens."

The dinner is the Fellowship's annual affair in commemoration of the birth of the great author and the program is in charge of Miss Sophie Keenan.

Another interesting feature of the evening will be Mrs. Henry B. Lupton's reading from "Dombey and Son." Then a group of Fellowship Players, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Clifford, Mrs. Esther Leish Kelly and Holbrook Botset, will present two scenes from "David Copperfield" and Miss Mildred Woods will offer piano solos.

BLUE WILL BE THE MAJOR COLOR THEME OF THE YEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—As far as color goes—it is to be a blue year. Already indications show an overwhelming use of blue by nearly every house for every type of garment and many accessories. Some green is still shown, but not nearly as much as last spring and autumn. But blue in every shade and phase is to be seen with much bright blue favored. Hats of navy straw or fabric have been shown for early spring wear. There is, of course, as always, plenty of navy blue, for this color is indispensible and always there are women who favor it for at least one of their suits. At present, fawn, beige and blue lead the color card, but of course they may be augmented or even pushed from their high place. For nearly always it is futile to prophesy the mode. We can just report the trend and watch which way it is going. Nearly always there is a "dark horse," something different that is shown, creates an instant furore and promptly influences the mode for that particular season. And that is what almost every house endeavors to do.

* * *

MOST ATTRACTIVE and very springlike is the ensemble sketched which is from Lucile's collection. Both frock and coat are right up to the minute in bright blue. The frock is of blue wool corduroy, while plain, unribbed wool in the same vivid shade of blue makes the coat. The frock uses material that is light and supple in weight. The clever diagonal piecings on both bodice and skirt lend much interest to the model and enhance the design. The draped scarf knotted at each side is of white crepe de chine and the belt is of matching blue leather. The coat shows a smartly tabbed scarf collar knotted high like a cravat and attached to the neckline just above the top of the wide lapels. Pockets are concealed in the horizontal piecings which pass over the hips. The sleeves too have an interesting closing at the wrist, a buttoned loop just below a slashed open piece that flares below the elbow.

KREUGER-TOLL 'WRITE-OFF' HEAVY

Downward Revaluation of Security Holdings Takes Millions From Reserves

NEW York, Jan. 30.—Operations of Kreuger & Toll Company during 1931 showed a comparatively strong trend in operating earnings of a recurring nature despite the handicap of world depression. On the other hand, international financial unsettlement, particularly in respect to government loans, necessitated extensive revaluation of many of the company's investments, requiring heavy charges against reserves and undistributed profits.

Net profits last year after taxes and interest on secured debentures totaled approxiately $21,000,000, or about $2.19 an American certificate, representing participating debentures of 20 kroner each. This compares with net profits of $32,789,279, or $3.04 an American certificate in 1930.

RESERVES REDUCED

Profits for 1931 are calculated on the basis of the exchange for the krona on December 31, which was approximately 19 cents against parity of 26.8 cents.

To place asset values on a highly conservative basis, all marketable securities and government and other bonds were written down to market values as of December 31, 1931. The exact total involved in these write-offs has not been disclosed, but an indication of their extent is given by the decline in reserves to approximately $80,000,000 at the year-end, compared with $137,587,478 on December 31, 1930, a decrease of more than $57,000,000. In addition, a portion of the net adjustment was charged against profit and loss account.

ASSET VALUE $16

After revaluing investments on this basis, the net asset value an American certificate was approximately $16 on December 31 and is now somewhat higher, due to subsequent appreciation in market values. At the end of 1930 net assets were equal to $25.40 an American certificate.

Probably the largest part of this downward readjustment was applied against bond holdings, represented chiefly by government securities. Despite the depreciation in marketable value of these bonds, however, the company passed through the year with no default in service on its government security holdings.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN HEAVY

Firmness at Opening Soon Fades; Westinghouse, P.R.R., Steel Shares Ease

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—With war clouds darkening in the Far East, the stock market was hesitant in the early dealings today, and inclined to turn somewhat heavy after a slightly firm opening.

Union Pacific and Western Union lost a point, and Auburn 3. Major fractional losses in the first hour appeared in American Telephone, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse, while Pennsylvania lost an opening gain of ¼. United States Steel and General Electric eased slightly.

There was still a little talk of a "war boom" in speculative quarters, but it was so vague that speculators were disinclined to act on it.

Forecast of an early rail wage agreement in the Chicago meetings was favorably accepted by Wall street, although recent market activity has indicated that some of the edge has been taken off any favorable announcement such as is now in prospect.

Trade reports were eagerly scanned for some promise of better buying. A more hopeful tone was noted in the heavier industries, due to the appearance of belated automobile orders. The retail trade barometers again indicated that goods could be moved fairly well "at a price." They also showed that this year's early Easter had as yet reflected little stimulus to business. While no change in collections was reported, the mercantile lines as a whole showed a more cheerful sentiment.

Largely offsetting the reduction in prices of copper metal to 7 cents a pound was the step-up in demand. Foreign orders yesterday totaled 1,800,000 pounds.

Foreign exchanges were steady in early dealings with the French and Belgian francs moving fractionally higher and sterling cables quoted at $3.45⅜ in initial dealings, unchanged from Friday's close.

BANK ELECTS '32 OFFICERS

Directors of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh at their organization meeting yesterday elected the following officers:

President, Henry C. McElhoney; vice president and secretary, John A. Irwin; vice presidents, Richard B. Mellon, Sidney S. Liggett, Ralph S. Euler, Clarence Stanley, Carl R. Korb, David I. Parkinson; treasurer, Edward Crede; assistant treasurers, William L. Church, James A. Kommer, S. Philip Gerst, Daniel C. Becker; assistant secretaries, William A. Robinson III, Florence J. Schmertz, Jr.; manager of publicity, John E. McKirdy; manager safe deposit department, Raymond W. Ross; assistant manager safe deposit department, F. Foster Andrews; auditor, William E. Scheibler; assistant auditor, Karl H. Held; vice president and trust officer, Carroll P. Davis; trust officers, William W. Grinstead, Charles E. Young; assistant trust officers, Frank O. Receiver Named for Old Chicago Store

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A federal receiver has been appointed for the Charles A. Stevens and Brothers Department Store, one of the largest and oldest mercantile establishments on State street. The action was taken on a friendly petition, stating the store had been unable to meet payrolls and other debts, although assets amount to nearly twice the liabilities. The Bradley Knitting Company instituted the suit.

Copper Offered At Lower Price

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The price of copper had a slight relapse yesterday when domestic sellers offered the metal a quarter of a cent lower at 7 cents a pound.

The reduction in the domestic rate followed a drop in the export price of 7⅛ cents a pound, c. i. f. European base ports. This is ⅛ a cent under the recent price at which custom smelters had been selling.

Lackawana Seeks O. K. on Bond Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue promissory notes for $12,432,000.

As collateral for the notes, $10,600,000 of Morris and Essex Railroad bonds, and $13,630,000 of New York, Lackawana and Western bonds will be pledged.

Oklahoma City Oil Allowable Lowered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 30.—An order reducing the allowable production of the Oklahoma City oil field from 120,000 barrels to 95,000 barrels daily effective February 1, was signed by the State Corporation Commission.

Downward Revaluation of Security Holdings Takes Millions From Reserves

NEW York, Jan. 30.—Operations of Kreuger & Toll Company during 1931 showed a comparatively strong trend in operating earnings of a recurring nature despite the handicap of world depression. On the other hand, international financial unsettlement, particularly in respect to government loans, necessitated extensive revaluation of many of the company's investments, requiring heavy charges against reserves and undistributed profits.

Net profits last year, after taxes and interest on secured debentures totaled approxiately $21,000,000, or about $2.19 an American certificate, representing participating debentures of 20 kroner each. This compares with net profits of $32,789,279, or $3.04 an American certificate in 1930.

RESERVES REDUCED

Profits for 1931 are calculated on the basis of the exchange for the krona on December 31, which was approximately 19 cents, against parity of 26.8 cents.

To place asset values on a highly conservative basis, all marketable securities and government and other bonds were written down to market values as of December 31, 1931. The exact total involved in these write-offs has not been disclosed, but an indication of their extent is given by the decline in reserves to approximately $80,000,000 at the year-end, compared with $157,587,478 on December 31, 1930, a decrease of more than $77,000,000. In addition, a portion of the net adjustment was charged against profit and loss account.

ASSET VALUE $16

After revaluing investments on this basis, the net asset value an American certificate was approximately $16 on December 31 and is now somewhat higher due to subsequent appreciation in market values. At the end of 1930, net assets were equal to $25.40 an American certificate.

Probably the largest part of this downward readjustment was applied against bond holdings, represented chiefly by government securities. Despite the depreciation in marketable value of these bonds, however, the company passed through the year with no default in service on its government security holdings.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Turn Heavy — Local List Unchanged

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN HEAVY

Firmness at Opening Soon Fades; Westinghouse, P.R.R., Steel Shares Ease

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—With war clouds darkening in the Far East, the stock market was hesitant in the early dealings today, and inclined to turn somewhat heavy after a slightly firm opening.

Union Pacific and Western Union lost a point, and Auburn 3. Major fractional losses in the first half hour appeared in American Telephone, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse, while Pennsylvania lost an opening gain of ¾. United States Steel and General Electric eased slightly.

There was still a little talk of a "war boom" in speculative quarters, but it was so vague that speculators were disinclined to act on it.

Forecast of an early rail wage agreement in the Chicago meetings was favorably accepted by Wall street, although recent market activity has indicated that some of the edge has been taken off any favorable announcement such as is now in prospect.

Trade reports were eagerly scanned for some promise of better buying. A more hopeful tone was noted in the heavier industries, due to the appearance of belated automobile orders. The retail trade barometers again indicated that goods could be moved fairly well "at a price." They also showed that this year's early Easter had as yet reflected little stimulus to business. While no change in collections was reported, the mercantile lines as a whole showed a more cheerful sentiment.

Largely offsetting the reduction in prices of copper metal to 7 cents a pound was the step-up in demand. Foreign orders yesterday totaled 1,800,000 pounds.

Foreign exchanges were steady in early dealings with the French and Belgian francs moving fractionally higher and sterling cables quoted at $3.45¾ in initial dealings, unchanged from Friday's close.

Receiver Named for Old Chicago Store

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—A federal receiver has been appointed for the Charles A. Stevens and Brothers Department Store, one of the largest and oldest mercantile establishments on State street. The action was taken on a friendly petition, stating the store had been unable to meet payrolls and other debts, although assets amount to nearly twice the liabilities. The Bradley Knitting Company instituted the suit.

Copper Offered At Lower Price

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The price of copper had a slight relapse yesterday when domestic sellers offered the metal a quarter of a cent lower at 7 cents a pound.

The reduction in the domestic rate followed a drop in the export price of 7⅛ cents a pound, c. i. f. European base ports. This is ⅛ a cent under the recent price at which custom smelters had been selling.

Lackawana Seeks O. K. on Bond Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue promissory notes for $12,432,000.

As collateral for the notes, $10,000,000 of Morris and Essex Railroad bonds, and $13,639,000 of New York, Lackawana and Western bonds will be pledged.

Oklahoma City Oil Allowable Lowered

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 30.—An order reducing the allowable production of the Oklahoma City oil field from 120,000 barrels to 95,000 barrels daily effective February 1, was signed by the State Corporation Commission.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

STEEL OUTPUT CONTINUES UPTREND

Opposing Opinions Offered As to Industry's Outlook; Auto Call Disappointing

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel production continues to rise at the rate of about two points a week, this week's ingot output being estimated at fully 27 per cent. There is no backlog business of consequence on mill books and no definite or positive assurance that demand will continue its increase but it is commonly assumed that there will be further increases.

From a general viewpoint the situation is somewhat curious for in a month there has been an increase of fully one-third in tonnage whereas the various steel consuming lines observed individually do not show increased activity sufficient to account for this large general increase.

DECEMBER LOW MONTH

As a result there is some divergence of opinion in the trade as to the outlook. In some quarters it is held that consumers must show signs of more activity before much further increase in steel demand can occur, while in other quarters it is held that when the total has increased as it has with apparently so little cause it will be all the easier for a larger increase to occur when the seasonal influence approach of spring comes to be felt.

That December will be left permanently as the low month is universally conceded. Official reports showed production at 27¾ per cent in October, 30 per cent in November and 23½ per cent in December, while the next report will probably show about 25 per cent for January.

BUILDING CALL SMALL

The automobile industry was expected to show the largest increase in requirements after the turn of the year, and it has done so, although it has not come up to expectations. The season will have a later peak than usual. The farm implement industry is running much the same as formerly. It had no extended schedule as to its seasonal activity and it has none now.

Fabricated structural steel lettings and fresh inquiries continue to run very light, but the steel mills have already felt substantially the full effect in decline of this activity, and as to seasonal swings. January has regularly been the low month of the year in shipments of the fabricating shops.

TIN PLATE DULL

Tin plate has been particularly dull this week on account of the national canners' convention at Chicago. Operations are not increasing and the whole season is likely to be late, though total requirements may be off but little from last year.

Finished steel prices have shown no outright declines in the last two weeks, but the irregular lines are not stabilized and there is lacking the crucial test of larger and more attractive individual orders being offered. Bars, shapes and plates are nominally steady, old figures prior to last month's decline being again quoted, but customers rather generally have been protected at the lower figures. Semi-finished steel has had a marked decline in the last two or three weeks, being now in general at $27 on attractive orders.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Bank clearings for the week show little, if any, improvement, and the loss continues heavy, compared with a year ago. The total for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, of $4,684,750,000, is 37.1 per cent under that of last year. At New York City clearings were $3,146,632,000, a reduction of 38.7 per cent, while the aggregate for cities outside of New York of $1,538,118,000 shows a decline of 33.5 per cent.

Bank clearings this week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago, follow (totals in thousands):

Rail Wage Agreement to Affect Business Here

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN the railroads and the labor unions on a wage reduction is being regarded as a major factor in opening the gates to railroad buying which has come to a virtual standstill. The release of railroad money for new equipment and repair materials will be of vital importance to the Pittsburgh district.

First of all, railroad buying will help the steel industry. Second, it will restore activity in car building shops and in the plants of equipment companies such as Westinghouse Air Brake.

The extent of the buyers' strike indulged in by the railroads is pictured in a report of the American Railroad Association showing the amount of new equipment placed in service during 1931. A new low point was reached for any year since 1923, the first for which records were kept.

New freight cars installed in 1931 totaled only 12,662. In 1923 the number of new freight cars placed in service totaled 196,336. It appears quite likely that the number put on the lines last year was the lowest in several decades.

Installations Off 64,247

INSTALLATIONS IN 1931 were 64,247 cars under the number placed in service in 1930. They were 72,232 cars below 1929 and 45,733 cars below 1928. The negligible number of cars put in service last year may be realized by the fact that some individual lines have been known to buy as many cars in single years in the past.

No change in the building of new cars has taken place so far this year. This is indicated by the number of cars on order on January 1, 1932, which amounted to only 4,042. A year before 9,821 cars were on order while two years ago there were 34,581 cars ordered.

The figures on railroad buying of locomotives closely parallel those for cars. Only 124 new locomotives were put into service last year. In 1930 there were 782; in 1929 there were 762 and in 1928 there were 1,390.

Only 39 locomotives were on order at the beginning of the new year while there were 120 a year ago and 431 two years ago.

Rail Buying Light

THE RAILROADS HAVE been skimping on their repairs to right of way as well as on replacement of equipment. Only a small portion of the rails ordered last year from steel mills have actually been rolled. It is the custom of railroads to place orders for a year's requirements and then to specify shipment as they are needed. Except where rails have been urgently required, the steam lines merely failed to send specifications for shipment to the steel mills.

Of course, actual indications that a revival in traffic is under way will be needed to bring about a sharp upturn in railroad buying. But an agreement on a wage cut will relieve some of the tension surrounding the financial condition of the railroads and undoubtedly will make it possible for the carriers to do some of the buying which they have been putting off for the past year.

It appears likely that the railroads have permitted the condition of both their lines and their rolling stock to fall to a deplorably low state. The important safety factor in railroad operation and the need to have facilities to move traffic when it does come will influence railroad officials to resume equipment buying as soon as wage cuts or other factors increase their working margin.

Mr. Knapp

Maj. Howard E. Blood, president of the Norge Corporation and director of the Borg Warner Corporation, spoke on "The Norge of 1932." An interesting talk on the advertising and sales promotion plans for 1932 was given by R. E. Caldwell, vice president of the Cramer-Krasselt Company, Milwaukee.

Ludwig Hommel, president of Ludwig Hommel Company, was toastmaster, and J. N. Ewing, general Sales Manager was in charge of the meeting.

Reports Increase In National Sales

According to C. A. Kolb, district sales manager of General Foods Sales Company, Inc., national sales of Grape-Nuts for 1931 showed a considerable gain over 1930.

This product is one of the first ready-to-eat cereals produced, having been introduced in 1897. In addition to the popularity it has achieved in this country it has gained wide acceptance abroad, being used regularly in 51 foreign countries. Grape-Nuts Flakes, a new version of the original product, is being introduced in Pittsburgh at present, Mr. Kolb stated.

STOCK BUYERS SKUN 'TIPS' FOR FACTS

New Investors Guided by Economists After Proof Of 'Inside Dope' Errors

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Jan. 30. — The far-reaching economic distress has altered the investment viewpoint of those who have been fortunate enough to retain at least a fragment of their wealth.

Recent publication of the fact that certain affiliates of leading financial institutions misjudged the trend of the stock market has further depreciated popular respect for inside information as to what the inner circle is doing, and has heightened appreciation for the importance of underlying economic facts. In other words, since the seemingly infallible of Wall street have been shown to be fallible, there is a rising market in public esteem for sound economic analysis, and a bear market for gossip as to what the so-called big fellows are doing.

Mr. Rukeyser.

Investigation by the New York Stock Exchange some time ago of the significance of changes in the floating supply of United States Steel stock plainly indicated that the investor class, which depends on generally-known basic facts, over the long pull tends to get the better of the speculator class, which feeds on tips and so-called inside information.

The book, "Oh, Yeah," containing a catalog of the mistaken forecasts of the stuffed shirts of politics and business, is symptomatic of the rising spirit of skepticism. Obviously, prior to the panic, the gullibility of the American public was tested to the quick. Now the pendulum has swung back to the opposite direction, and has gone somewhat to extremes. When genuine normalcy has returned, there will be a new willingness to follow honest and intelligent leadership. But the fact that confidence had been greatly abused makes the return of the willingness to believe a slow process. The decline in the psychological credit of established leadership is one of the invisible losses growing out of the depression.

TEST SCALES OF MERCHANTS

A citywide checkup of scales in food markets, grocery stores and meat shops was being continued today by Director C. D. Cullen, of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs.

Cullen is being assisted by James P. Bailey, Chief Sealer of Weights and Measures of Pittsburgh, and State Deputy William Swoger. The campaign will continue 10 days, Cullen said, following an investigation of scales in downtown stores yesterday. They reported finding no evidences of intent to defraud, but ordered repairs on several scales giving weight slightly under requirements of the state code.

At places where flagrant violations are found, Cullen said, prosecutions will result. The first offense carries a fine of $25, the second $50, and the third $100.

have young, lively people, imbued with the spirit of 'Do.'

"On the other hand, all sorts of buildings are being constructed — hangars that cost $92,000 each, great barracks and officers' quarters.

"Every branch of our aviation is in the same condition. It is too long a story to tell you. There is no chief at the head of any branch of aviation in this country who actually had any big command at the front during the war.

"All aviation has been pressed into the background and made subsidiary to something else. On the other hand, we are spending enormous sums and propaganda is going out from the administration about what wonderful things are being done. It is disgraceful.

"We have tried, of course, to ameliorate this condition for many years, but more positive steps have been taken in the Democratic Congress than for some time. Mr. Byrns, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, has introduced a bill, H. R. 7012, Seventy-second Congress, first session, to establish a Department of National Defense.

"Mr. Reid, of Illinois, has introduced H. Res. 69, 'to appoint a committee of Congress of nine members to make a study of the land, naval and air defense of the United States and make a report to the House of Representatives with such recommendations, by bill or otherwise, as may seem advisable.' This is the first step of this kind that has been taken since the Endicott board of the War Department, which investigated our national defense in 1881.

"Mr. Curry, of California, has introduced a bill, H. R. 261, to create a department of national defense. This is a carefully thought out measure and is the result of several years of work. It has been built up on the bills introduced in 1918.

"This act made into law would cover our national defense in a sensible way. It would give a mission to land, air and sea force and do away with useless overhead. It would give us a doctrine of national defense as applied to air, land and water, would fix responsibility and vastly reduce our expenditures.

"Comparatively speaking, I think our national defense is in a more chaotic state than it has ever been before. Anything that can be done to push the idea of an improvement should be attempted.

"In this connection you can be perfectly certain that no help will come from the War or Navy departments, as they are absolutely fixed and entrenched in the archaic ideas that pertain to these services. Our services not only are not looking back to the last war for inspiration, they are looking back to the Civil War or even before that."

THAT IS a long quotation, but you will read every word with interest. It is a satisfaction and a duty to give publicity to the plain words of Gen. Mitchell, who was released from the Army and from service to his country because he had the unfortunate habit of telling the truth, even when it annoyed manufacturers of armor plate or battleship builders.

THERE ARE other things in the news of today more pleasant than what you read here. But the world is back in a state of war across the Pacific, and we, thanks to foolish meddling, are in danger of becoming involved. Under those conditions there is nothing important EXCEPT WAR, and the possibilities that the hideous word involves.

You need not be old to remember how, in 1914, the nations, one after another, slipped into the big war, this country also dropping in when a longing for international glory went to the head of a gentleman supposed to have "kept us out of war."

WINDOW GLASS DEMAND UP

Except for some increase in window glass demand in the Southwest, there has been no change of moment in the flat glass industry generally in the past week, according to American Glass Review. Orders for glass, including laminated, for automobile manufacturers, continue to come in, but there is no real zest to this market as yet. However, the outlook for the future appears to be brightening slowly, and the trade generally has more hopeful attitude.

The meeting of the western division, National Glass Distributors' Association, held in Chicago on January 26, drew a better attendance than usual for this season of the year. While distributors reported no signs of increased activity, they appeared to feel that the worst was over as far as flat glass distributors in the Central West is concerned. Stocks are being arranged on a minimum basis, and distributors are facing facts as they find them.

WARM WEATHER HITS TRADE

Retail turnover continues below normal due to a considerable extent to the mild temperatures, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review. Extensive advertising and low prices do not appear to bring satisfactory results in the attempt to move winter merchandise.

Jobbers report buying very light and thus far orders for spring merchandise have been small. The annual automobile show is in progress with a very fair attendance, but it is too early to prophesy what the actual volume of sales will be. Construction work continues light and buying of lumber and other building materials is slow.

Production of bituminous coal continues at about the same rate as last week and still averages about 25 per cent lower than a year ago.

Collections continue to average slow in this district.

DUKES SEEK TO RETAIN TITLE LEAD

COACH CHICK DAVIES leads his speedy Duquesne University basketeers against their second city opponent in the Tartan gym tonight. The Dukes have a victory over Pitt to their credit already, and as the Panthers toppled the Scots in their annual pair of games, a win tonight will practically give the Bluffites the local intercollegiate championship in their first season of competition.

Jim MacDougall

The Dukes this season play two games with Carnegie and one with Pitt. The possibility of Pitt's taking the second game from Carnegie and of Duquesne's dropping one of its two contests with the Skibos provokes conjecture as to a tie, figuring on a percentage basis, as the Panthers and Dukes would then have similar records of two games won and one lost in the city series. However, the Dukes are out to avert any such development, if possible, and declare they are not going to let opportunity walk away from their door the first time it has been allowed to knock.

FROM POINT OF experience and size of their squad, the Duquesne passers this season are an amazing combination. In a total of 10 players there are eight sophomores and two juniors, the latter including Capt. John (Bunk) McGeever. All members of the squad are rated of equal value by Coach Davies, and each lends his quota of speed to one of the fastest aggregations in the history of the university.

Among the outstanding sophomores is James (Big Jim) MacDougall, forward luminary. MacDougall stands more than 6 feet 2 inches in his gym shoes, and is rated one of the most capable performers on the Bluff court. He is a product of East High, Cleveland, O., and started making a name for himself last winter as a member of the undefeated Duke freshmen, whose record was unblemished in 21 games. Big Mac is Scotch; is maun canny and aufa gude, even if he doesn't talk that way. He is a bosom pal of Capt. McGeever, who is of the same height, though not so heavy.

AND NOW WE have Max Baer re-established in the heavyweight fistic running by virtue of his success in halting King Levinsky's advance with a 10-round decision over the Chicago battler in New York last night. Baer has shown uncommon spirit as well as ability in fighting his way up front again after a series of reverses at the hands of Ernie Schaaf, Tommy Loughran and Paulino Uzcudun.

The Californian probably will be no soft picking for anybody, but hasn't quite earned the rating implied by Jimmy Johnston when he announced that last night's winner would be appointed alternate for the Schmeling-Sharkey match. Johnston was aiming merely to boost the show. The victor in next week's Schaaf-Uzcudun bout will be a step or two ahead of Baer in the heavyweight ranking.

THE DEAL THAT brings Pitcher Bill Swift to the Pirates from Kansas City may not end the trading activities of Manager George Gibson. The Buccaneer boss, though declining to name the players involved at either end of the negotiations, admits that he has two more swaps pending, and he is hopeful of putting one or both of them through. He considers the chances fair for the consummation of one, at least. Both of the proposed trades are with National League clubs, but the Phillies, contrary to reports, do not figure in either.

Hack Wilson

ONE OF HACK WILSON'S ambitions as he makes ready to attempt a comeback with the Dodgers is to remain in the National League long enough to overtake and pass Rogers Hornsby for the distinction of having made more home runs in the senior circuit than any other slugger in its history.

Wilson still has quite a distance to go, as Hornsby has boosted the National League record to 296, while Hack's total up to date is 206. But the Rajah is no longer to play regularly, and Wilson hopes, after Rogers has retired as a player altogether, to keep going until he has set the highest mark the league ever knew.

IT HAS TAKEN Hornsby 17 seasons to hit his 296 round-trippers, while Wilson has made his 206 in less than eight complete campaigns, though it must be said for Hornsby that he did not have the advantage of the lively ball in the first six years of his career in the big show. Wilson connected for 10 homers in 1924, six in 1925, 21 in 1926, 30 in 1927, 31 in 1928, 39 in 1929, 56 for a new league record in 1930, and 13 in 1931.

Babe Ruth's world record is far beyond Wilson's reach. In fact Babe has made more homers than Hornsby and Wilson combined, his total up to date, exclusive of 13 in world series competition, being 611.

A CONNELLSVILLE READER asks the number of times and the years Braddock High School has participated in the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship elimination series. The query brings out the fact that Braddock, though never winning the W. P. I. A. L. title, has made one of the best records ever credited to any school in the organization, having qualified for the eliminations 10 times in 15 years by winning the championship of its section. And in one of the five years in which it failed to play in the eliminations, the season of 1924-25, it was not in W. P. I. A. L. competition. Bill Evans, then coach, says the team of that season was his greatest, as it defeated the Pitt freshmen when the latter had Sykes Reed and other future varsity stars, and also beat Kiski. In still another season, 1919-20, Braddock finished in a tie for its sectional title and lost out only in the playoff with Norwin.

COACH BILL EVANS, now principal at Scott High, won the sectional title and got into the eliminations seven times in nine years of competition. Ray Cox, of Allegheny College, coached two years and won the title twice. Shady Lane, also of Allegheny College, coached one year and he, too, finished at the head of his division.

The years in which Braddock got into the eliminations (listed according to the years in the first part of which the series were played) were 1917-18-19-21-22-23-24-27-28-29. Coach Cox's team reached the elimination finals in 1917 only to be defeated by Buckets Sandomire and his Schenley High School mates, and again in 1918, only to be defeated by South High at a time when the latter team included Gentille and Callahan. The team to eliminate Braddock in 1921 was McKeesport High, which went on to win the state championship.

M'KEESPORT GLOVE FANS, who are strong for amateur boxing, will be given another chance to see the simon-pures in action on Wednesday and Thursday nights, February 17 and 18, when the McKeesport Athletic Club will hold a tournament at the Palisades rink under the rules and sanction of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. The classes will be 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and heavyweight.

The tournament will be open to all registered amateurs of 18 or over who have not won a senior A. M. A. championship. Watches will also be the prizes for the runners-up. The losers in the semi-final bouts will receive gold fobs and knives. A trophy will be awarded to the team scoring the most points on a basis of five for first, three for second and one for each loser in a semi-final. Entries close Saturday night, February 13, with James McGirr, Palisades rink, McKeesport, or John T. Taylor, 37 Vandergrift Building, Pittsburgh.

Bill Robusch

FOLLOWING THE LEAD of many other ex-collegians who have broken into the professional wrestling game during the last few years—as a matter of fact, former college athletes are now in the majority in the foremost mat ranks—a one-time track captain and star on the University of Pittsburgh is contemplating turning grappler. He is Bill Robusch, a crack athlete first at Salem (O.) High School and later at Pitt. Robusch, who weighs 175, is working out daily at a Salem athletic club preparatory to plunging into the grunt game, and is expected to make his debut on the mat at an early date.

PANTHER SPEED TOO GREAT FOR OPPONENTS

Pitt's second team held West Virginia's varsity tossers three points better than even in the first half and a combination of varsity and reserve Panthers rambled on through to a 35-27 triumph for the Gold and Blue over the Mountaineers before a turnout of 3,000 in the Stadium Pavilion last night.

The game was a drab affair, lacking in thrills and after the first five minutes, its outcome never was in doubt. Pitt had too much speed for the West Virginians, who coupled poor passing and inaccurate shooting with heavy work afoot.

PITT TAKES LEAD

The Panther reserves held a 13-10 advantage at half time. They pulled up even at five-all after West Virginia had taken its only lead of the night at 5-1, when Leo Sortet turned in a brace of field goals. After that, the big fellow, who isn't so bad as a football end, banged away from out in front all evening, but aside from a third goal later in the first period, he confined his activities to missing close ones.

Steve Kowallis, Al Wrobleski, Chuck Hughes and Co-captain Willie Kowallis accounted for Pitt's goals in the first half, Hughes getting a pair.

The Panthers ran the score to 22-10 in the second half, with Lawry and Don Smith in the game, before West Virginia scored, and then, with all hands popping away, maintained a healthy majority at all times.

CUBBON SHINES

Had it not been for Eddie Cubbon, the Mountaineer center, the boys from Morgantown would have been sadly out of the picture. Cubbon was the high scorer of the evening, with four field goals and six fouls for 14 points. He counted 12 markers in the second half. John Brown, in at center for most of the game for Pitt, put up a creditable exhibition and dumped in two field goals in the second half.

The officials were very stringent when it came to tooting their whistles, calling 33 fouls, 21 on Pitt and 12 on West Virginia. They blew some that brought the boys in the galleries to their footsies with yelps of derision, but then, it is the boys in the galleries who pay the officials.

In the preliminary, the Pitt freshmen rang up another victory by nosing out the hefty Mountaineer frosh, 26-24. The lineups:

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HUMAN ROCK—When Andy Felkins was a child he became a sufferer of ossification and gradually his entire body turned to stone—bones, muscles and ligaments. His tragic life did not affect his mind. One of his accomplishments was committing the Bible to memory. The picture from which my drawing was made was taken at the Fayette (Ala.) County Fair in 1929. He died in 1930 at the age of 48. THE ROLLICKING RACONTEUR—Dr. A. Leinwand, of Vienna, who, curiously enough, is a member of a family long associated with the fabrication of yarns (zwirnfabrikation), told an interested audience at the Alpinisten Club in Vienna a series of 600 pointed stories in 6¼ hours, on Sunday, November 6, 1927. The rollicking doctor's goal was narration at the rate of 90 stories within an hour, an attainment with which he is credited in 1923. He exceeded this time by only a few minutes. None of his stories had been heard before by his audience.

BAER BEATS LEVINSKY

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Max Baer, the California Adonis, returned to Madison Square Garden to pound out a dull 10-round decision over King Levinsky, of Chicago, last night. The decision was unanimous.

The crowd of 10,000 had few opportunities to cheer during the fight and refused to get excited over a decision or anything else. There were no knockdowns.

According to the Associated Press score sheet, Baer had a margin in five rounds, two went to Levinsky and three were no dice. The only mark that either bore of the battle was Levinsky's left side, which was a deep red from the constant thumping it received during the interminable clinches.

Fight Results

GATES, P. G. A. CZAR, HERE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Albert R. Gates, business administrator for the Professional Golfers' Association of America, arrived in the city this morning, and immediately went into conference with Paul R. Byrnes, convention manager for the local Chamber of Commerce, and local P. G. A. officials, relative to the staging of the P. G. A.'s annual match play championship in the Pittsburgh district this year.

Gates was greeted upon his arrival by Fred Brand, Sr., of Allegheny, president of the Tri-State P. G. A. chapter, and Tom Bennett, of Youghiogheny, vice president. With Byrnes, they were to accompany him to the conference at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Gates and Brand are time-honored old friends.

"It will be a fine thing to hold the tournametn in Pittsburgh," Gates said. "It is an ideal location. Last year we held our championship at Providence, R. I., in the east. Next year, we will stage it in Chicago in conjunction with the World Fair. This year, we hope it is held here.

"The P. G. A. match play championship has taken the place of the National open championship in the public eye of golf," he continued. "When Bobby Jones left the amateur ranks, the Open tourney lost a great deal of prestige that now belongs to the P. G. A. tourney. Jones, you know, is an honorary ivec president of the P. G. A., and last year refereed our final matches at Providence. He likely will be here for the tourney, if it is held at the Field Club."

At the same time, Secretary-Treasurer John W. Carr, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, announced a special meeting of the board of governors was held at the Aspinwall Club for noon today, at which time the club definitely was to decide whether it could comfortably afford to underwrite the tourney.

If the Field Club directors decide in the affirmative, and are willing to guarantee the $8,000 to $12,000 expenses for visiting professionals involved, the matter is expected to be taken up immediately with Gates.

Gates holds a position in golf similar to that of Judge Landis in baseball. He was to be present at the Field Club governors' meeting.

Dempsey May Not Box Here Under New Ruling

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission has withdrawn permission for Jack Dempsey to appear in no-decision four-round exhibition boxing bouts in Pennsylvania, and ruled that if he does appear, it must be in decision contests.

The commission recently granted the former heavyweight champion the right to appear in no-decision exhibitions in order to foster boxing in the state. Attention of the commission was drawn to the state law which requires a decision on all bouts.

Because their right to allow no-decision bouts was challenged, and also because other promoters had asked permission to hold no-decision contests, the commission deemed it best to withdraw the permission given to Dempsey.

Motor Square Garden has been planning to show Jack Dempsey against Emmett Rocco or some other opponent in a four-round exhibition bout late in February. Matchmaker Jules Beck said today he feared the reversal of the commission's ruling permitting a no-decision contest would kill the match.

KIRKWOOD LEADS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia professional, neglected his celebrated trick shots yesterday to shoot six birdies for a 70 to lead the $2,500 Texas open field at the end of the first 18 holes of the 72-hole trek. In 1924 Kirkwood won the Texas open. He was only one stroke ahead of Gene Sarazen, New York professional, who turned the Brackenridge Park course in 71.

POLO LEAGUE TILT TONIGHT

The polo teams of the 107th Field Artillery and the 308th Cavalry meet for the first time this season tonight in Hunt Armory, in the second game of the Pittsburgh Polo League. The handicap standing of the Artillery riders is 11 while the Cavalry is 10, giving the cavalry a point to the good at the takeoff.

Perritt, Young and Linton probably will make up the team for the Cavalry, while Watson, Kiser and Reed probably will start for Artillery. The game is scheduled for 8:30.

TWO GIANTS SIGN

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The New York Giants yesterday received the signed contracts of Sam Gibson, righthand pitcher, bought from San Francisco, and Emil Planeta, recruit infielder, recalled from Bridgeport.

COPULOS TOPS TIFF DENTON

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Gus Copulos, of Eugene, Ore., shot his way into the running for the world three-cushion billiards championship yesterday, racking up his fifth straight victory, while Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., 10-time holder of the title, was definitely eliminated.

Copulos defeated Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, 50 to 45, in 56 innings.

Allen Hall, of Chicago, accounted for Layton, 50 to 38, in 52 innings.

Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, scored a 50-to-35 victory over Len Kenney, his fellow townsman.

Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, tightened his grip on first place by a 50-to-38 triumph over Frank Scoville, of Buffalo.

By JESS CARVER

The trials and tribulations of two of our leading young college basketball coaches either will be added to or assuaged tonight as the varsities of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne inaugurate relations on the former's floor.

Dave Feldman

Prior to the opening of the present season, Carnegie looked forward to sporting the very best basketball team in the school's history. The boys got away to an ordinary start by dropping two out of the first three games, then rallied to win half a dozen or so in a row, but the bottom fell out of the Skibo market and Pitt, Grove City and Geneva served the Plaid lacings in three of the team's last four games. The defeat at the hands of Pitt was especially disconcerting. There you have a brief resume of the troubles of Coach Hogan.

DUKE RECORD BEST

Duquesne, after beating Pitt, entertained hopes of galloping through its season without a defeat, but found the task of playing four games in a row in Washington last week too tough and met up with defeat in the George Washington fracas. The Bluffites have been idle since. Duquesne also looked forward to a sparkling campaign, and by beating Tech tonight and repeating later in the season in the return game, and holding up in the other contests on the card, Chick Davies' team may still realize its fondest ambitions.

The city title may hinge on the outcome of tonight's game. A win for Tech will put the Tartans back in the running, provided they follow through by beating Pitt next week. A defeat, however, will virtually clinch the honors of the year for the Dukes, for if Tech can't take the Red and Blue tonight, it hardly can be figured to crash through in the return game in March.

Duquesne fans, somewhat worried earlier in the week over the reports that Chick Davies was planning to experiment with his lineup, may calm their fears. Chick is going to shoot his varsity at the Plaid right off the bat. Dave Feldman and MacDougal are set at the forwards, where the Davies experimenting has been directed in the week's practice sessions. Capt. McGeever will go at center and Marty Reiter and Dude Moore at the guards.

STENTZ AT CENTER

The anticipated shift of Jagnow to center in the place of Eddie Stentz appears at the last minute to be out. Coach Hogan has decided to go back to the lineup that carried the Skibos through their seven-game win streak, and will keep Lou at forward and give Stentz another chance at center. That means that Red Silverman, who was primed to cover himself with glory as a starting forward, will have to fidget and fume on the bench again, for the early acts of the scrapping at least. Bob Smith, of course, will be in at the other forward and Capt. Leonard and Fergus are to perform at the guards.

The stage appears to be set for another Duquesne victory. The Tartans will be tough, as always, but it is a question whether or not Hogan's attack will be piercing enough to get through the strong Duquesne zone defense, and whether the Carnegie bulwarks will be goal-tight enough to stave off the formidable thrusts of the Red and Blue.

The freshmen teams of the rivals will clash in a preliminary engagement due to get under way at 7 o'clock.

MITTMEN NEAR FINALS

33 PRELIMINARY FIGHTS BRING SEVEN KAYOS

Semi-final and final-round matches in the Junior A. M. A. A. U. boxing championships are to be staged in the Keystone Athletic Club tonight. Preliminary tussles in other divisions were staged on Thursday night.

Aloysius Long, of Burke A. C., scored the quickest kayo of last evening when he stopped Joe Jeffries, Willow A. C., in 25 seconds of fighting.

CELTICS MEET DOUGLAS

By TOM BIRKS

One Central League battle and a couple of other interesting independent games are on this afternoon's soccer card. At the Westinghouse High School field, Clan Douglas meets the Pittsburgh Celtics in the Central League.

At Swissvale, Union Switch hooks up with National Tube, and at Ambridge, the proposed exhibition game between Ambridge and Duquesne is to be staged.

Douglas has a protest pending with the appeals committee of the West Penn. For some reason or other, the appeals committee failed to meet prior to the governing body's meeting last Tuesday, so fans must await their findings.

The West Penn referees' body will hold a meeting this evening at its headquarters.

PHIL PERKINS COPS

MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Phillip Perkins kept back the challenge of Young Winfield Day, 17-year-old schoolboy of Chicago, and won the La Gorce open amateur golf championship yesterday, 7 and 5.

WORLD RECORD SET

BIG PINEY, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Alf Engen, Salt Lake City, whipped his own world professional ski jump record with a leap of 297 feet yesterday. His record for the course was set at 245 feet last year.

GIBBY GOES ON AIR

GEORGE GIBSON CHARLES J. DOYLE

Gibson, who returns to the Pirates as manager this year, after a long absence from the game, being interviewed over WCAE by Doyle, baseball expert of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, last evening. Gibby gave the fans some slants on what to expect from his charges.

SPORT VIGNETTES

It is a popular notion that Jim Londos, the heavyweight wrestling champion, is a millionaire. . . . Ed White, his manager, denies the compliment, saying Jim's cut of his 101 appearances in defense of his title last year grossed him only around $200,000, what with various charities cutting into the biggest gates. . . . Out of that $200,000 had to come enormous traveling and hotel expenses and a manager's "cut." . . . And Jim is keeping his father supporting a brother's faltering business in Athens and educating another brother and helping to care for two sisters upon whom he has just bestowed dowries. . . . Londos has been wrestling some 15 years, but take it from his manager he has not yet been able to salt away that first million, although of course he's far, far from poverty's door.

"It's this weather we've been having that has caused the keeper of the greens of the Harmer Golf Club, at Cheswick, to be caught in the act of mowing 'em the other day. . . . The course is a semi-public nine-hole affair and has been operating full blast all winter, with the regular greens never once closed for a day. . . . Gene Tunney—where have we heard that name before?—will be heard over KDKA during the Collier's Hour tomorrow night in connection with the beginning of his biography in the publication.

Eddie Mead, the veteran fight manager, who recently brought Paul Pirrone and Roger Brooks here to score sparkling victories over local boxers, vouches for the fact that the late Leo P. Flynn once had 30 fighters in his stable and had 18 of them fighting in various cities in one night, and all of them were knocked out. . . . So what are YOU kicking about? . . . When Jackie Fields regained the world welterweight title in his bout with Lou Brouillard in Chicago Thursday night, he became the sixth boxer to win that crown a second time. . . . Jack Britton, Young Jack Thompson, Ted (Kid) Lewis, Rube Ferris and Mysterious Billy Smith were the others.

No wonder they call Phar Lap, the invader from Australia, the Wonder Horse. . . . The record of the Red Terror, now preparing at Agua Caliente for a campaign on American tracks which is scheduled to open with a $10,000 race against Marine, Dr. Freeland and Plucky Play on February 21, to be followed by the Agua Caliente Handicap, with a $50,000 guaranteed purse to the winner, is one of the most imposing in history.

Phar Lap began his career as a 2-year-old in 1928, and was unplaced in his first four starts before winning a six-furlong race. In 1929, Phar Lap's first four starts found him unplaced and he finished second in his next try, making only one victory in his first 10 races. . . . From this bad start, the thoroughbred has compiled a record of 36 victories, three seconds and two thirds, and has been unplaced only nine times in 50 trips to the barrier and has won his owner a total of $282,200 in purses. . . . He has won the classic Melbourne Cup race of two miles once, finished third once and was unplaced in his last start, last year, under the crushing impost of 150 pounds.

Phar Lap is a speed king and a stayer over any route and was such a standout in one of his races last year that the Australian bookmakers refused to quote odds against him. . . . He will be running on dirt tracks for the first time in this country, which fact may prove a handicap, and it is planned to bring the 6-year-old gelding East to meet the best of our American stars this summer. . . . His presence should do much to stir up interest in racing circles.—HARRY KECK.

DUMMER SIGNS JONES AND PAVLICK

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Billy Jones, of Philadelphia, vs. George Pavlick, of Cleveland.

That's the 10-round main bout lined up by Bill Dummer for Eddie Kapphan's new boxing arena, which opens its doors next Friday night in a building at Center avenue and Addison street.

It looks like a pip of a battle on paper. Jones, a Negro light-heavyweight, is a former Hill boy who went East to make his mark in the boxing game and has shown here a few times since. He knocked out Battling Bozo in the N. B. A. tournament in Chicago night before last and is the favorite to win the elimination. His opponent is a former Johnstown kid, who gave a brilliant exhibition in winning handily on the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling card in Cleveland last July. He is a stablemate of Johnny Risko.

THREE OTHER SHOWS

Mike Thomas, of North Lima, O., and Sharkey Lesko, of McKeesport, will box the opener for Dummer.

Three other shows are carded in the Pittsburgh area next week. Motor Square Garden swings back into action on Tuesday night, with Jimmy Belmont and Sylvan Bass in the main bout and Tiger Joe Randall and Joe Raymond in the semi-final. Apples Meyers is offering two 10-rounders in the Moose Temple on Wednesday, with Jimmy Dean, Erie Negro, meeting Charley Baxter, local lightweight puncher, in the 10-round main bout and Guy Salerno, Jack Perry's middleweight from California, boxing Jocko Walters in the other feature, and Jim McGirr is plotting another card for McKeesport on Thursday night.

Between Rounds

Young Rudy and Jimmy Monette box the 10-round main bout at Steubenville on next Thursday night.

An amateur boxing club in the Twenty-fifth Ward is to be known as the Young Men's Republican Club, will stage its first show on February 20 in a hall to be selected.

Joey Reynolds has got himself back into condition and is ready to meet the best in the welterweight division. He was the leading contender for the welterweight title when he was forced to quit on account of illness.

The Fighting Boxing Club of Wheeling has bothered the Wheeling Athletic Association into retirement from the promoting field in the West Virginia city, assuming that unless some new promoter comes along, the sport is dead in the West Virginia city. Some good boxers have been brought in by the clubs, but the fans have failed to respond, and the clubs took it on the chin financially until they decided they couldn't carry on any longer.

RODGERS BOWS TO MACK

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Jimmy Mack, Philadelphia featherweight, far outclassed Jackie Rodgers, of Pittsburgh, here last night, and won a decision after 10 rounds. In the semi-final Matty White, lightweight of Philadelphia, outpointed Johnny Canzoneri, of Allentown, Pa., in eight rounds.

ALICE WHITE ON WCAE :-: Shanghai Battle Broadcast Rumor

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

A DIRECT PICKUP from the war zone in Shanghai, China, is now occupying the fertile minds of network production men . . . and, if possible, a description of an actual battle will be relayed to the American armchairs from somewhere close to "No Man's Land." . . . It is known that special short wave equipment, capable of sending signals direct to San Francisco, has been taken to Shanghai. . . . Chinese officers will be given an opportunity to explain their side of the great war.

Question a Day:

Tell me something about Tony Wons—where he was born, whether he's married and all that.—Yvonne F., Carrick.

Answer—Tony was born in Menasha, Wis., on the day after Christmas 40 years ago. He is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 140 pounds. Wounded by shrapnel in the World War. Married Ruby Hill, of Kenosha, Wis., when he was 27 years old. Their girl of 11 is named Theodosia, after his mother. Lives in Jackson Heights, N. Y., but keeps a room in a hotel to rest during the day. Still does his "Scrapbook" over WABC, New York, every morning at 9:30. Likes a pipe best, but sometimes smokes cigarets—the kind he praises over CBS.

Vince Barnett, famous impersonator of the stage and movies who is spending a few days at home here before returning to United Artists in Hollywood, is to be an extra added attraction of the Sun-Telegraph Night Club tonight . . . Vince is screamingly funny.

Bebe Daniels is to make a special trip from Los Angeles to appear in Rudy Vallee's program the night of February 18 . . .

Prof. Yiff Niff on WCAE last night was Sunny Joy, the crooner, in disguise . . . like him?

Some weeks ago Walter G. Myers went on KDKA nonchalantly and told his experience in the attack of an American troop ship by a German submarine during the World War . . . listeners liked it, demanded an encore and the date has been set for Saturday, February 13, at 10:45 . . .

They don't like to pay fines for violating the copyright laws at WWSW—during the hockey game broadcast the other night a restricted musical number was put on the public address system at the arena and strains of the music filtered through the WWSW microphone . . . The line was cut temporarily while Ed Sprague filled in with a substitute program at the studios . . . The announcer, Havey Boyle, went on talking about the game into a "dead" microphone and didn't know about the incident until a minute later when the connection was resumed . . .

Andy Sannella, who was taught his NBC's by B. A. Rolfe, is going to be a busy broadcaster before February ends . . . by the end of next month Andy will be leading his orchestra in programs five times a week in addition to playing his saxophone with Sam Herman, xylophonist, on NBC Sunday nights . . .

Don't overlook the Cuckoo's return on WCAE at 5:30 this afternoon . . . and sweet Baby Rose Marie on Club Valspar, WCAE at 9:30 . . .

Tito Schipa's dulcet tenor voice is to be heard in the first act of "Martha" from the Chicago Civic Opera House on WJZ, WGAR, WLS, WBAL at 9 o'clock tonight . . .

And what's this! . . . Good old "Snoop and Peep" on WJZ (760kc.) at 10:15 tonight . . .

The Pittsburgh girls—Irene and Mathilde Harding—play "Anitra's Dance" and "Old Black Joe" on the piano-organ over WJZ, WJR at 10:45 . . .

Congratulations to Lloyd C. Thomas on the completion of five successful years with Westinghouse radio stations! . . . There's a man's man who has enough friends in his home state of Nebraska to be Governor . . . Mr. Thomas wins friends and holds them and is respected throughout the industry as a leader . . .

Birthday greetings to Dr. Walter Damrosch who acknowledges 70 years today by rehearsing his symphony orchestra for the regular NBC broadcast tomorrow afternoon . . . there's a tribute for the dean of American conductors on WCAE at 8:15 tonight . . .

Every suite in the Hotel New Yorker is to have television setup . . .

The CBS blues singer known as Aunt Jemima has a real name so long (Theresian Francesca Veronica Phelimina Gardella) that when she appeared on the stage in New York recently it was necessary for the management to abbreviate the appendage to mere "Tess Gardell" to get it in the electric sign board at the Roxy . . .

Morton Downey prizes his first fan letter sent to him by a western fan who thought him a woman and addressed it "Martha Downey" . . .

Mary McCoy was quick on the trigger recently in answering the letter of an admirer who suggested that she allow him to invest her money . . . "What money?" was Mary's pert reply.

The roar of Niagara Falls, originally scheduled for WABC tonight, has been postponed until next Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

MARRIED LIFE -:- Screen Again Concerned About Working Wives -:- IN THE THEATERS -:- Critics Talk About Stage And Films

Loretta Young, Mr. Manners To Put Faith Baldwin's Characters in Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30.

The question of the working wife continues to be one of the most popular themes in the new crop of pictures.

Over at Warners, they've decided to let Davin Manners and Loretta Young re-enact the problem in Faith Baldwin's new Novel, "Week-End Marriage." At one time, this was considered as a Ruth Chatterton vehicle, but now Darryl Zanuck has other plans for Ruth.

David Manners

As far as "Week-End Marriage" is concerned, the big problem is settled when the wife gives up her job and settles down to domesticity.

The latest prank of the Marx Brothers drew only feeble smiles from Paramount executives.

It seems the fiendish four improved the lunch hour by switching names on all the "officials' doors.

With Paramount affairs that unsettled, more than one victim got a temporary jolt.

MAE CLARKE AS INDIAN

When Lew Ayres makes "Laughing Boy," he'll very likely have Mae Clarke for a partner. Of course, she'll have to wear a wig, for the heroine is an Indian girl. In the meanwhile, Carl Laemmle, Jr., has engaged Earl Haley to do the screen-play of Oliver La Farge's Pulitzer-prize novel. A native of Arizona, Mr. Haley has taken a camera crew to get winter scenes of the Navajo reservation. Snow stands 5 feet there now.

OAKIE TURNS REPORTER

What a city editor would do to Jack Oakie if he were a reporter! But Paramount figures he will do very nicely as a screen likeness of one. Jack is to play Fredric March's friend in "I Jerry Take Thee Joan," a story about a newspaperman who married a society girl. Sylvia Sidney is the girl and Dorothy Arzner, the screen's best known woman director, is to keep an official eye on the proceedings.

GOSSIP OF CELEBS

Dorothy Lee went through with that appendicitis operation. She's at the Mercy Memorial Hospital in Whittier . . . Dorothy Sebastian has a letter from Alice Terry in Egypt. Rex Ingram is acting in his new picture, "Baroud," and Alice is assisting in the direction. Both of them are learning Arabic . . . Mary Roberts Rhinehart is out here only for a visit . . . Gwili Andre, latest foreign importation, arrives today . . . Incidentally, Sari Maritza, her immediate predecessor, is Edgar Wallace's only rival in long cigaret holders . . . Abel Green got a rousing send-off party from the staff of Variety . . . Ernest Schoedsack, just back from filming "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" in India, already plans a new trip to New Zealand . . . Jackie Cooper must have a streak of Scotch. He takes the neighborhood kids to the films every weekend, but first they must help him clean his play-house . . . Over at M G M., the studio pays an official "Clock Watcher." He's employed on the "Grand Hotel" set just to see that all the time pieces are correctly set.

Rex Ingram

Sadie!

Dorothy Mackaill is pictured as she appears in "Safe in Hell," film current in the Warner. Her role is said to recall the gay and careless stage lady, Sadie Thompson.

War and 'Sub' In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The last pictures made of the ill-fated British submarine, which sank in the English Channel with its crew of 60 aboard, are shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, being seen in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters, with a full description by the Globe Trotter. There are pictures of the working of the life-saving "lung," which is supposed to enable the crew to escape from a sunken submarine. The members of the crew, it is now believed, were unable to use this device because of gas formed by the escaping gasoline from the airplane.

The horrors of the war in China are vividly pictured. Thousands of half frozen and starved refugees are seen fleeing the countryside and arriving in Tientsin and other cities. Freight trains jammed with troops fleeing from the Japanese advance are also shown. Great camps have been established for the relief of the unfortunates.

WRESTLING MATCH

The most sensational and thrilling wrestling match ever pictured is that between Jim Londos, the Greek Hercules, and Sammy Stein, former professional football star, at Madison Square Garden.

The latest styles in coiffeurs are described on living models in a Paris salon. Many striking modes in hair waves are shown.

Alcazar, the famous Spanish palace, is turned over to the new republic in a colorful enthusiastic celebration at Seville.

WINDOW CLEANERS

The 10,285 windows in the 102-story Empire State building in New York City are given their mid-winter washing by a crew of daredevils who take along a Metrotone cameraman to record the thrills.

Love Victor In Romance At Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

After all there is some advantage in having a pair of shoes made by a shoemaker. That's the big lesson of "Lovers Courageous"—the picture in the Penn, with Robert Montgomery as the lover and Madge Evans as the beloved. The picture was made by Frederick Lonsdale, an English dramatist, and that's where the shoemaker comes in. Lonsdale knows how to make plays that fit and don't creak.

George Seibel

This one is nothing more than a pretty love story, with some fine characterizations and refreshing comedy. It is British in atmosphere, with a stern admiral who has a pretty daughter, and a silly lord who drops all his aitches while he's 'unting with 'ounds. But the hero has nothing stodgy about him—he even makes love like a gentleman, and he has some of the wittiest lines recently imported via Hollywood.

Besides being a pretty love story, it is also a charming fairy tale. How the harum-scarum hero becomes a famous dramatist and rushes off to recapture his lost princess is in the approved style of Hans Christian Andersen.

"Lovers Courageous" is worth while for its charm and humor.

Then there is the stage show in which Alice White lets the audience see why gentlemen prefer blondes. This graceful dancer, who might have grown up in a doll-shop, gives a waltz and a tango in poetic style before she romps into wrestling with that amusing chap, Ted Claire.

Blondes predominate in the show, as there are four of them, with Jerry playing baby grands, and another pair of twins singing and stepping. Only the daredevil skaters and the comedians aren't bleached. Can they be dyed?

Plays, Players, By-Play

Come Tuesday and we'll see Maude Adams back on the stage, where she was for many years an inspiration to admirers throughout the land. She will be seen in the Nixon as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," in which Otis Skinner will be Shylock.

Cagney Now Drives a Taxicab

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

James Cagney is on the Stanley screen. He's the fellow who made such a nice corpse in "The Public Enemy" and such an alert bellhop in "Blonde Crazy." His new picture is "Taxi"—and yes, you've guessed it, he's a cab driver.

The breezy Mr. Cagney is one of the films' refreshing personalities. You may say he's a "type" actor, one limited to certain roles by certain characteristics that prevent him from escaping himself. Just the same he's more amusement than a whole studio full of some other "versatile" stars.

The picture is really a melodrama, but Mr. Cagney turns it into a comedy. And it's all for the best.

HEROINE GETS SLAPPED

There's a taxicab war on in this and though, compared to Pittsburgh's taxi fuss, it's more like a peace conference, there's a good share of excitement. Motor cars are wrecked and murder is done.

Cagney is all set to "get" a killer who bumped off his pal. And when his little wife wants to stop him, he gives her an awful slap in the face. Loretta Young is the lady—and she takes it like a true heroine.

Leila Bennett, with something of Zasu Pitts in her voice and manner, gives an amusing portrayal. But it is Mr. Cagney who makes the affair as entertaining as it is.

CHIC SALE ON STAGE

Chic Sale is on the stage. He dons his whiskers and battered G. A. R. hat from his "Star Witness" days and toots his battered cornet. He also offers other impersonations. Audiences like him a lot.

Dick Powell is back as master of ceremonies. Among the featured entertainers also are Annie, Judy and Zeke, billed the Original Georgia Crackers. They've been in the Stanley before and their singing and antics are a scream.

Bernie Armstrong amuses with another organlogue.

Our Heroine Hangs in Warner

Dorothy Mackaill does a Sadie Thompson in "Safe in Hell," new Warner film. It is one of those melodramas of the tropics—and not such a cheerful one.

In New Orleans Dorothy shoots a man. Then, believing him dead, she takes refuge out of Law's reach on one of those far-away, sun-struck spots. And she finds herself surrounded by a bunch of hoodlums.

But, aside from getting drunk with them and smoking all their cigarets, she remains true to her man, who has been sailing the sea all this time.

So it goes until one day the fellow she thought she killed back in the States turns up. Realizing the Law isn't haunting her any more she starts packing up for a homeward journey.

Now tragedy enters. We aren't going to tell you what it is, but in the end she is forced to choose between hanging by the neck or being nice to a rough old bozo. And she choses the rope.

Miss Mackaill does all right with her part. Other players include Ralf Harolde, John Wray, Victor Varconi, Don Cook and Ivan Simpson. —C. E. G.

Noisy Now

Ramond Novarro will come to the Sheridan Square Wednesday in the once silent version of "Ben Hur." It is now enhanced with sound.

'Wise Girls' In Davis; Enright

By MILDRED FILLMORE

In "Three Wise Girl" current on the screens in both the Davis and the Enright, Hollywood again shows us what happens to the little country girl who comes to the big city.

Jean Harlow heads the cast. At the very outset the picture impresses you with Jean's goodness. She's seen walking home from an auto ride.

'Tis not long, however, until she lands in the Big Town. She still believes in Santa Claus. But the reels ahead are packed with disillusionment.

Mae Clarke is present as another of the girls of the title. She lives in one of those elaborate apartments which no ordinary working girl could afford. So we guess this catalogues her to your satisfaction.

The third girl is the plump Marie Prevost. She works at home, addressing envelopes. She has it figured out that in 250 years, if she keeps to her job, she'll be rich. But she's willing to quit at any time for a man.

Walter Byron is prominent in the supporting cast.

Miss Prevost does the best acting. As for the film, it's average stuff.

Eight Children Cast In Film Scene

Helen Twelvetrees' unfitled starring vehicle for RKO-Pathe started production recently under the direction of William Seiter. Eight children appeared in the opening scene of the picture with Miss Twelvetrees. Two of them, 6-year-old George Billings, and 5-year-old Marylin Knowlden, attained the dignity of "bit" players with lines to speak. Cast in the picture are Eric Linden, Arline Judge, Cliff Edwards, Polly Walters and Blanche Frederici.

Groto to Honor Retiring Monarch

Walter F. Weberg, retiring monarch of Islam Grotto, will be honored at a testimonial dinner at 6 o'clock this evening in McCreery's dining room. State Treasurer Edward Martin and Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, will be the principal speakers. More than 600 reservations have been made. George B. Confer, past monarch, is head of the committee in charge.

Mr. Weberg

Bridging the Sea, Topic of Lecture

"Bridging the Atlantic—On the Trail of a Hurricane" will be the subject of an allustrated lecture by Capt. Hugh Duncan Grant in Carnegie Museum Lecture Hall tomorrow afternoon. The lecture will be free to the public.

59 Pupils Graduate At Allegheny High

Fifty-nine students were graduated from Allegheny High School at the sixteenth mid-year commencement exercises in Heinz auditorium, North Side, last night. Speakers were William Bartlett Harvey, highest honor student; Isabel Miller, Clara M. Timmons and Beatrice Steinert, all of whom were graduated with high honor. The Rev. Elbert E. Oney, of the Grace Lutheran Church, North Side, gave the benediction.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

PARIS, Jan. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Flying to Berlin to see the country that there has been so much talk about saving. I can't see the difference nowadays when a country has been saved and when it hasn't. American delegation arrived last night. On the same boat were 100 barrels of gold coming from home and on another boat 500 barrels. We always thought barrels were just to send apples or potatoes in. Then they talk about cancelling the debt? Say, if we don't run out of barrels we won't have enough gold left at home to fill our front teeth.

Yours, WILL.

Remark

O, I shall languish for a little while,
And when I meet you I will bow to you,
Chatting of this and that, and even smile
In the most gay, contemporary style
Of such encounter—nor shall one word pass
Whose overtone might shatter the bright glass
Of your complacency, or bring the trial
Of sidelong glances from the passers-by.

And yet, I would remark, just by the way,
That should we meet again, say, next December,
With mem'ries of another Spring and sky
Casting reflections on a busy day,
There won't be even this left to remember.

Newspaperman Stuff

Tom Weatherly says it happened in a speakeasy near a conservative morning rag. A group of scribes, press agents, drama editors and that breed were gathered about a table in the back room. Gab and giggle water flowed incessantly until about 6 in the yawning. Finally they decided to adjourn.

One of the mob, slightly less saturated than the rest, called for the check and, as is the custom of the fraternity, began counting the stews so as to apportion the bad news equally among them. Somehow he couldn't make his tally coincide with the figures on the bill.

"Whatdya tryin' ta do, Louis, —gyp us?" he squalled.

"Not at all sir," replied the waiter. "You just forgot to count those three guys under the table!"

A Form of Criticism

Two vaudevillians who have been doing their act in front of the Palace for months were discussing the bill at an uptown theater.

"It wasn't bad at all," said one, "it was unusually fine!"

"You're right," interrupted N. Brusiloff, "even the headliner was good!"

Version No. 111,437

"I hope all your children become acrobats," contribs Anonymous, "so that they'll have to be first on vaudeville programs and the audience will expect something better!"

Sid Parrygraph

"You mean to say she turned down the role because they couldn't get anybody tougher than Clark Gable for her leading man? Why, he's the hemaniest of them all!"

"Perhaps, but she considers him a sissy. Don't forget, she's had a drink with Mr. Hyde and she's necked with Frankenstein!"

Truism

The bow-boy comes but once, they say,
And hastens on when he is sighted;
Dear Dan, we wouldn't act that way—
If you would come when you're invited.

Hamlet's Fake Grave

It seems that the Nordic countries — Sweden, Denmark and Norway—have only within the last few years become tourist conscious. In an aggressive effort to get some of the tourist business into their own countries there has been an active campaign of beautification and reconstruction of historic places of interest.

Apropos of Hamlet it seems that the problem of attracting tourists to Hamlet's grave was a very serious one to the town of Elsinore because of the fact that Hamlet's grave is located in a thicket some distance from the town and is in a very inaccessible place.

Fearing the loss of business because of the grave being too much trouble for the average tourist to get to, some bright young man in the local Chamber of Commerce conceived the idea of building a nice new Hamlet's grave which would be more easily within reach. Accordingly, a beautiful shrine was erected right in the center of the town for the convenience of foreign visitors—who now come and ogle and go away sublimely unaware that it isn't Hamlet's grave at all—but just a nice public monument which, after all, serves the purpose just as well.

Oh, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the best similies of 1932 book: Don Millar's: As gay as a paper hat on January 2 . . . As reliable as a watch bought at a Broadway auction shop . . . As sorely tempted as an old Mack Sennett comedian in a pie factory . . . As impatient as a man watching a dance of the seven veils, and, as enthusiastic as a Congressman agreeing with himself.

The Morning Mail

"Dear W. W.," writes Sammy Gross, "your comments on the 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' boners remind me that in 'Union Depot' Doug, Jr., borrows a suit and contents from a drunk's bag and the suit is a perfect fit! Also, Doug swipes a hat from a porter who is brushing it and that fits perfectly, too. The drunk was a smaller and fatter bird."

Proving, Sammy, that the movie patron's eye is quicker than the movie director's brain.

The Murrayer, the Merrier

David Murray's specials for tomorrow include these flip-quips: Nowadays things are so tough you have to fire the cook before she'll leave! . . . Remember the good old days—when businessmen got tired?

Double Squelch

Dick Rinaldi, of Hoboken, asserts he actually overheard James Cagney and Jesse Block, of the RKO Circuit, swap this chatter. Cagney, it appears, was trying to impress Jesse.

"You mean to say," barked Cagney, "that you don't know who I am? I'm the Public Enemy!"

"Really?" snapped Block, "I thought Winchell was!"

Man Loves His Wife, Yet Wants Another Girl

He wants 'em both—
The wife—
And—
The Other Woman.
And is his conscience troubling him?
Oh—my gracious—No! His conscience isn't even giving him a twinge.
It's his technique that's worrying him —

How's he going to keep both the ladies without either finding out about the other?

So won't I please put aside my regular chores and help him devise Ways 'n' Means of meeting this romantic situation?

Will I.

Wait and see.

"Dear Miss Martin:

Here is a story that will probably make you think I am crazy. Yet it is true, every word of it, and I don't know what to do about it, so I am asking you for help.

Maybe I am crazy. Anyway I have myself in a tight jam. I am in love with two women. One is my wife and the other woman is the other. I have been married two years and have a fine, sweet wife and a wonderful baby. I love my wife and baby, but I can't help loving the other girl, too. I have tried hard to break away from her, but somehow I always go back.

I don't want to lose my wife, yet I want to keep her, too.

I know I can't have both of them, because it is getting so I'm beginning to find it hard to get away from my wife to keep dates with this other girl.

THIRD-RATE SHIEK

The girl knows I'm married, but my wife knows nothing of her. I was going to tell her about it, but I imagine that wouldn't help any either. Do you think this feeling I have for the other girl is just an "infatuation," and should I give her up now, or wait and let the variety wear off of itself? I have been going with her for six months now.

What can I do? Please help me. MARTY.

Is your "love" for this other girl "an infatuation?"

It is indeed, Big Boy—

It is an infatuation for Marty who, until this date, has never cared for anyone on earth except himself.

Love your wife?

Balones!

You don't know the meaning of the word. You haven't a spark of honest affection in your conceited heart. You're just a third-rate shiek who's getting his dates mixed and wants someone to tell him how to straighten out his accounts.

Yet, pshtis like you think you're God's Gift to Womankind. Watson, hand me my hiccough cure.

SHOULD TRY LOYALTY

And now, having given you a faint idea of how I feel about you, let's discuss your problem.

Shall you keep on stepping out with this "other woman" until the "variety wears off of itself?"

Well, offhand, I'd say that you're probably two of a kind and belong together, but your wife might not agree with me. Women have queer tastes sometimes, and she may really want you around.

So if you have any sense (which I repeat, I seriously doubt), you'll brace up and try to impersonate a Man, even if you haven't any of the ordinary instincts.

Stop thinking that you're a Big Brainy Boy because you're outsmarting one loyal, sweet, trusting woman and a helpless little kid.

Any cheap shekster can run your sort of a game. Look yourself over—and see what a twospot you are. Then if you have even a shred of self-respect, cut out the philandering and be loyal to your own gang.

And if you still can't control your wavering heart? Then buy a one-way ticket straight through to Timbuctoo. They have boys like you out there. Hanging from trees.

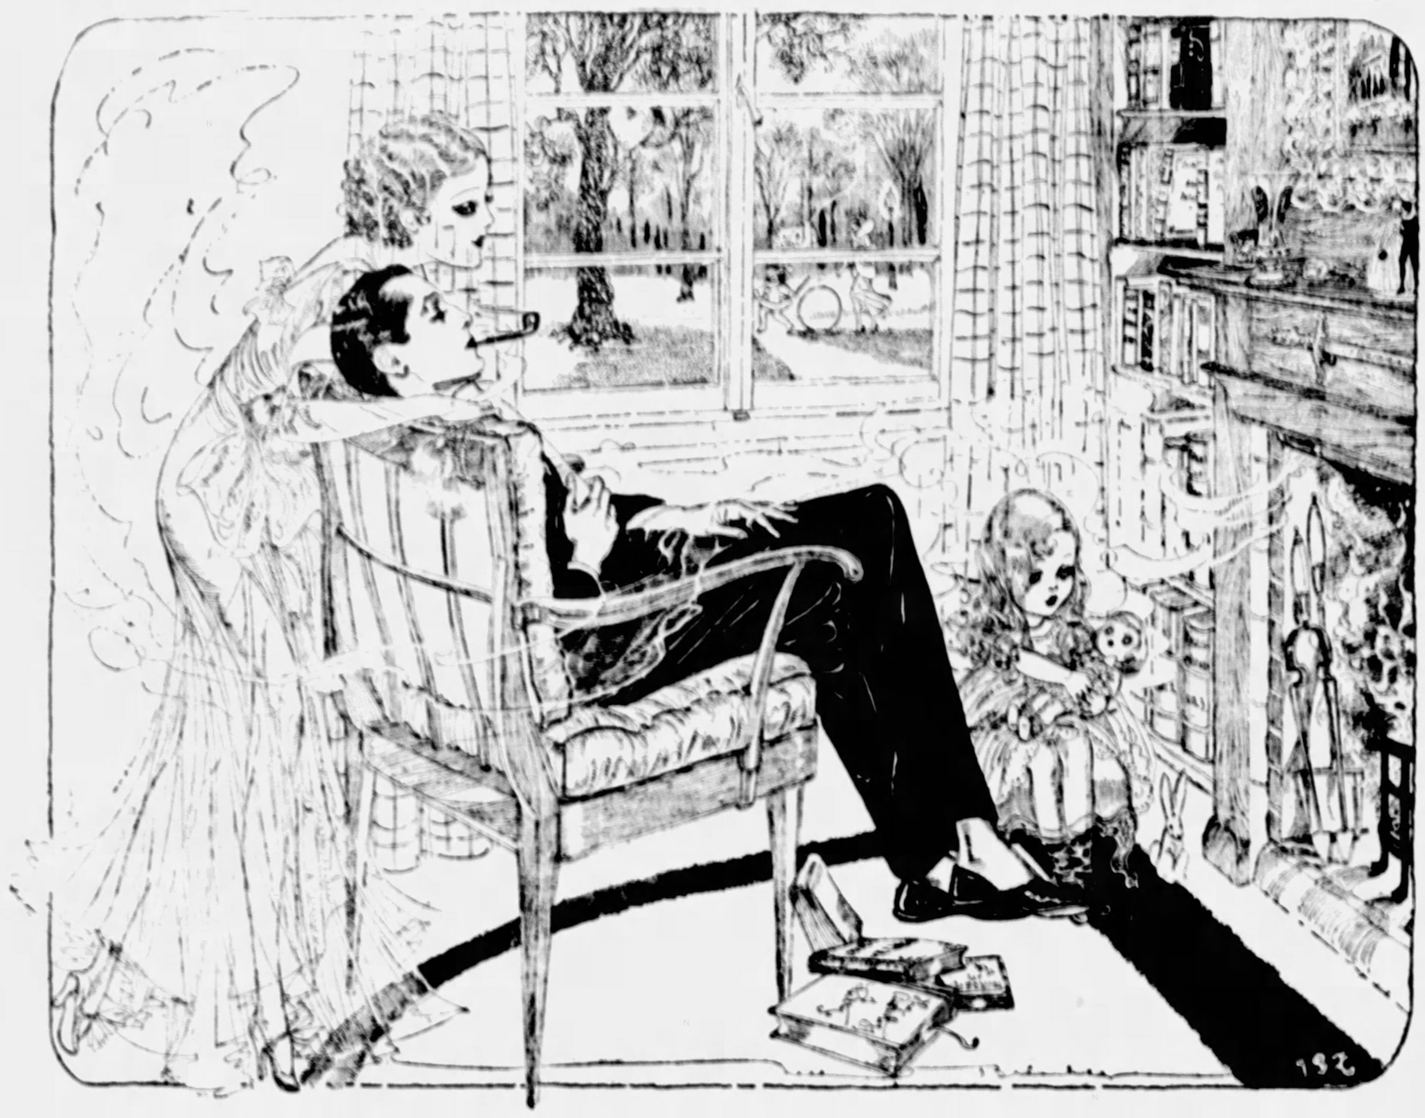
THE BACHELOR—A WEAK MOMENT— -:-

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



"A Bachelor may thrive, by observation,
On a little!"

"Most in-generally," the man-all-alone, the big sufficient lone-wolf, believes this to be enough to live sentimentally upon. To thrive, by observation, on a little. He dines at his good friend's friendly house, accepts and returns the kind looks and compliments of his good friend's wife, makes love to, earnestly, and sincerely, the tiny edition of her mother that is his good friend's little girl, measures her golden curls, kisses her dolls, cuddles her rabbit, and goes home happy—and satisfied. Second-hand domestic felicity is ample fare.

It is a little portion of observation of another's family beloveds, a little, and he thrives upon it! For see, it does not drink up his whole life. He can enjoy and put it away out of sight. If it were his own, he could not say good night to it and walk away down the street, swinging his cane; and going back to the peace of Bachelor Hall, or on to some noisy and more glittering diversion—with no one to care. That's the point to the Bachelor—no one to care TOO MUCH. "My study just as I like it, with no gentle wife to be too kind and, being kind, to put it in order so that I cannot find a thing!" To be short, his whole life just as he likes it. The wind is no more free than he. No beloved little child to stop reading the Anthology of Poetry or the latest Edmund Pearson to play "Uncle Wiggy" with, for love of her innocent little face. Traveling alone. He likes it!

But—by confession I know it—sometimes the Bachelor remembers the women he has liked for their several virtues and sweetnesses and sees some other he can like again. The very observations upon which he thrives play him false. His good friend's friendly house sends him home lonesome—not happily alone—but lonesome! He sees a look of real adoration in the eyes of his good friend's wife as they look at his friend in the candle-light. To be cared about like that—how would it feel? To have a golden-haired child demurely cuddling her doll upon the foot-stool by his fire, she and her velvet rabbit watching the sparks flee upward. How would it feel? Outside a young woman and her little child hurry by in the Winter twilight—laughing together.

This is only sometimes—in a moment of weakness!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Introduction Forms

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Two young ladies, sightseeing with their young men friends, met two young ladies of their own age (close friends, but who were unknown to the young men). The two girls wished to introduce their girl friends to their escorts, but were not sure of the proper introduction. Can you help them?

2. A young man wishes to introduce his roommate to a girl and her roommate. What is the proper way? FRANCIS.

First, dear sir, a suggestion for your first question: the man is introduced to the woman. That is an important thing to remember in introductions, since, besides its social significance, it affects the phrasing of the introduction.

1. Either of the young ladies who were with the young men could have made the introduction . . . it wouldn't make any difference which one did it.

The introduction might have been in this form: "Miss Allen, may I present Mr. Gregory and Mr. Robinson? and Miss Graham, Mr. Gregory . . . and Mr. Robinson." As each name is mentioned, the one introducing looks at the person whose name she is mentioning, of course, and says the name distinctly.

2. The same form would be used. Mention first the name of the girl, and then the name of the young man. Use either the form "May I present" or "May I introduce," or, if you wish to make the form more casual, only the names may be mentioned.

The Best Man

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In the case of a very quiet home wedding, if being desired to have a maid of honor, would it be correct to have a man of honor without the attendance of a best man? F. B.

It is most unusual for the groom not to be attended by a best man, but if he really doesn't wish to invite a best man, there is really no reason why he should. The fact that the bride, is to have a maid of honor does not make the difference, it is simply the preference of the groom.

Contract Bridge -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Can Y Make 3 No-Trumps

The hand below was sent to me with the following note: "Y played the hand at 3-No Trumps after Z had tried to take him out with clubs. The opening lead was the 4 of spades. The contract was beaten one trick. Could the contract have been made?"

Doubtless, Y played the hand as follows. He won the first trick with his J of spades; then he laid down his A of clubs, dropping B's J; then led his 10. Y could not afford to put up dummy's K to win the trick, because his own 9 would then effectually block the suit, leaving Z's long club suit dead. To avoid this calamity A must have been allowed to win the second club trick with his bare Q. The return lead of A's 7 of spades, through Y's K-8, enabled B to take in four tricks. After that A-B could have won no more tricks, but their five tricks taken defeated the game contract by one trick.

Let us see how a careful player would have proceeded with the minimum of risk and whether he could have gone game against any defense possible to A-B.

Y normally B's opening lead of the 4 of spades was a fourth best. Deducting 4 from 11, we have 7 showing that outside the lead's hand there must be held not seven spades higher than the one led. Declarer and dummy hold five higher spades, so that two higher spades must be held by A. That player may also hold the missing 2, which is the only card lower than the 4 that is not in sight. B can not hold more than four spades in his hand after he has led the 4. He may have only three spades left. With that clearly fixed in Y's mind, he easily can go game, provided the three missing clubs are not all held in one hand.

Clubs must have been dealt either 7-3-3-0 or 7-3-2-1 to the players. There are odds of almost precisely 7½ to 1 that neither A nor B holds all missing clubs. In other words, the odds are 7½ to 1 that game can be made against any possible defense open to opponents.

To test the adverse division of clubs Y should lay down his A of that suit, dropping the J at his left and the 7 at his right. That fall of two clubs insures game. Having determined that fact, Y must throw B in the lead with a spade, giving him four tricks in that suit. Upon B's third lead of a spade Y can discard his blocking club, leaving himself only a single club. On the lead of B's last spade one of Y's useless hearts may be discarded. Having exhausted his spades, B must lead up to Y's A-Q of either hearts or diamonds, giving the declarer two tricks in the suit lead. But Y does not need two tricks in any suit of his own. He has already won one spade trick and one club trick. Dummy contains six safe club tricks, and Y holds the aces of both suits not yet led. A-B can take their four spade tricks but no others. No matter what they do, no possible defense can give Y's opponents more than four tricks, provided he plays his own hand perfectly.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Fears Dicky's Reactions

My hands were actually numb from the icy little fear which had swept me at the sudden thought that I might have used Dicky as a basis for one of the characters in the third act of my play. Not in physical aspect was there any likeness, for my "comedy relief" character was fat where Dicky is slender; with a toupee, where Dicky's abundant brown hair shows no signs of becoming either thin or gray; and with a "caricature of a face" as contrasted to the features which I happen to know more than one of my husband's feminine admirers have called "like a Greek god" much to his disgust.

Nor were any of Dicky's more admirable qualities of brain and spirit mirrored in this character, who, while furthering the plot at divers times had been introduced principally for the purpose of lightening what might otherwise have been too somber a piece of work.

I acquitted myself on one count. If I had realized that I was putting into the mouth of this character any lines which were even slightly reminiscent of Dicky's speeches or thought-processes, I should have brought myself up with a round turn and deleted the offending lines.

Once having plodded past the opening of my third act, however, I had been so caught up and swept along with it that I had dictated the entire thing to Lillian almost without the realization of what I was doing. But even as things long forgotten come crowding back into one's memory, I began to have hazy recollections of the lines I had put into this character's mouth, and of the attributes with which I had endowed him. I had given him the flippancy of attitude towards serious things which Dicky displays sometimes, but of which, to do him justice, he is not always guilty. I also had given this "comedy relief" character a constant roving eye for a pretty girl, which involved him in numberless difficulties. With a blush of shame I realized that I had unconsciously exaggerated the artist's admiration which Dicky always gives to beauty in any form, feminine or otherwise and which has caused me many mistaken heartaches in our life together.

I gripped my pencil in desperation and attacked the pages before me grimly. What had I written? I asked myself frantically. If I only had been able to evade Dicky's questioning concerning that unlucky expression "the chimpanzee with the croup," he might not have noticed the other lines which I had put into the mouth of the offending character.

But, having wormed out of me the admission that my basis for the speech to which he had objected had been his own comment upon a photograph of Jack Bickett's, I knew that as he himself had intimated, he would be on the lookout for any other speeches which might have been inspired by humorous comments of his own.

If he saw no further than that, I could bear it, for I knew that he had not been angry because I had paraphrased a speech of his. Indeed I had sensed in him a certain humorous indulgence, holding a soupcon of gratified vanity at my plagiarism, but I had little hope of his overlooking the more flagrant offense of caricaturing some of his own attributes in my delineation of this comedy character. For there are few keener minds than Dicky's, and unless he were blinded by the egotism which sometimes forbids us "seeing ourselves as others see us," he could not fail to see and be wounded, if not infuriated, by what I had subconsciously done. It had been a subconscious deed, I was as sure of that as I was of anything in the world. But how to convince Dicky of that? I drove through my copy feverishly, thankful for the magazine which in reality, or pretense, was absorbing Dicky's attention.

It was as I had feared. My comedy character was in some respects a caricature of my husband. I caught my breath in actual terror at the prospect of Dick's almost sure reaction to my grievous offence against him.

For it was an unpardonable thing which I had done. I knew that as surely as I did the penalty. This offending character must be taken out of my play, even if the deletion involved a rupture with Philip Veritzen because of my uncompleted third act, and the blighting of all my hopes for success in dramatic writing.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Bed Is Proper Place for Typhoid Fever Suspect

Typhoid fever is a disease of world-wide prevalence. It is common to all countries and is met both in cities and the rural districts. Wherever the typhoid bacillus is to be found, there will be cases of typhoid fever.

Dr. Copeland.

The discharges from a typhoid patient may contaminate drinking water. The unwashed hands of a person with "walking typhoid" may infect milk, fruits, ice cream, butter or vegetables. It is possible that flies may carry filth and cause pollution.

One who has had typhoid, or who has been in contact with a case, may become a "carrier." Epidemics of apparently obscure origin have been traced to such persons.

The early symptoms of typhoid are not characteristic. A feeling of lassitude and weakness may be noticed for a week or two before the disease is recognized. But before long there will be severe headache, backache and fever, accompanied by diarrhea and pain in the abdomen. The symptoms are worse at night and the fever then is more intense. In the morning the patient may feel comparatively well.

Early in the second week the characteristic rose-colored spots appear on the abdomen. A blood test proves that the case is actually typhoid.

During the second and third weeks the symptoms continue growing worse. Improvement is noted in the fourth week, in a favorable case. Then the patient begins to struggle slowly back to health.

The typhoid bacillus attacks the glands of the intestine. First they cause swelling, then inflammation and ulceration. The progress of the disease corresponds to the changes in the intestinal glands. Recovery takes place when the ulcerated glands are healed.

The first measure to be taken in the prevention of typhoid fever, and in guarding a community against it, is to secure a pure water supply. The proper disposal of waste comes next. The dailies must be under constant inspection to guard against the contamination of the milk supply. All food handlers must be examined to discover the presence of "carriers."

Patients suffering from typhoid should be kept in a screened room. The excretions from the body should be disinfected, and all soiled clothing should be placed in a disinfecting solution. Nurses are taught the importance of strict cleanliness in washing the hands well after touching the patient.

Attendants upon typhoid cases should be vaccinated against the disease. This is a measure that affords reasonable protection for two or three years.

If typhoid is even suspected, the patient should be put to bed and kept there. The room should be well ventilated and quiet. No disturbing visitors should be admitted.

The patient should receive a liquid or semi-liquid diet, as ordered by the physician.

The various symptoms should be dealt with as they arise, but there is no specific treatment. Perfect quiet, with diet to keep up the strength and to guard against exhaustion, are the important factors in treatment.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Eye makeup continues to be an absorbing topic. No bridge game gets finished without the little dearhearts talking about eye shadows. Blue remains popular and is as kindly to the brunettes as it is to the blondes. The color fades out a bit as it extends upward toward the eyebrow. And a tiny line below the under lashes adds to that mysterious something imparted by eye smudges.

For blackheads and pimples, try the yeast pack. Dissolve a cake of yeast in a small quantity of boiling water, spread over the face and neck and lay on towels which have been wrung out of hot water. Let remain for 5 or 10 minutes. Lave with warm water, then with cold. Pat boric acid into the skin. Nice way to spend a dull evening.

Whether or not eye exercises are a good idea is a question; there are those who are for them, and those who are agin. The agins say that the eye is a camera, the retina a sensitive plate, the iris a curtain, that this mechanism is constantly making adjustments to conform with vision, hence the eye is in a state of activity during every waking moment. At any rate, exercise of the soul lanterns should be directed by an eye specialist.

Drab hair brightens up under the influence of the lemon rinse. There should be three alternating sudsings and rinsings, and the soap should be melted if it is to be distributed properly and thoroughly removed. When the rubbing is finished, add the juice of three lemons to a quart of tepid water and dissolve in the mixture one scant teaspoonful of salts of tartar. Pour over the head. Give a final rinsing with clear water.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

AN ORDINANCE—Relocating the course of Saw Mill Run, in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Wards of Pittsburgh, from the crossing under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to a point about 35 feet north of the first angle in Wilmerding street west of Woodruff street, so that the line of the same as relocated shall be within the line of Saw Mill Run Boulevard (formerly Woodruff street), as widened by Ordinance No. 348, approved June 26, 1931, and of Woodruff street, as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, and of property takings in effect such relocation by Ordinance No. 346, approved July 31, 1929, providing for slopes, retaining walls, appurtenances necessitated by such relocation and paving, establishing the grade of the same as relocated and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from properties benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that the course of Saw Mill Run, in the Nineteenth and Twentieth wards of the City of Pittsburgh, and the crossing under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to a point about 35 feet north of the first angle in Wilmerding street west of Woodruff street, so that the line of the same as relocated shall be within the lines of Saw Mill Run Boulevard (formerly Woodruff street), as widened by Ordinance No. 348, approved June 26, 1931, and of Woodruff street as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, and of property takings in effect such relocation by Ordinance No. 346, approved July 31, 1929, according to the hereinafter description thereof, to-wit:

The following described survey line shall be used as a reference line for the purpose of this Ordinance:

Beginning at the northerly portal of the crossing under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company at the intersection of a line parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 5 feet east of the center line of said undercrossing, said westerly line of said undercrossing being assumed to be known as station 0+00.0; thence extending north 23 degrees 48 minutes east along said line produced to a point of curve at station 0+15.07; thence northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 11.50 feet, and a central angle of 95 degrees 24 minutes to a point of tangent north 71 degrees 36 minutes west to a point of curve at station 4+18.10; thence northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 1,400 feet and a central angle of 16 degrees 11 minutes 30 seconds to a point of tangent at station 19+14.75; thence by a tangent north 55 degrees 24 minutes 30 seconds west to a point of curve at station 21+31.55; thence northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 250 feet and a central angle of 28 degrees to a point at station 24+45.0, said last mentioned point being about 11 feet west of the center line of Wilmerding street and about 35 feet north of the first angle therein northwest of Woodruff street.

The bed of the stream from station 0+00.0 on the above described survey line to station 1+70.0 on the same shall have a variable width. The easterly line thereof shall be parallel to and at a perpendicular or radial distance of 22.5 feet east of the above described survey line. The westerly line at station 0+00.0 on the above described survey line shall be at a perpendicular distance of 2.5 feet west of the above described survey line; thence extending northwardly and westwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left to a point perpendicularly opposite and 22.5 feet south of the above described survey line at station 1+70.0 thereon.

The bed of the stream from station 1+70.0 on the above described survey line to station 12+31.55 on the same shall have a uniform width of 45 feet, the center line of which shall coincide with the above described survey line.

The bed of the stream from station 12+31.55 on the above described survey line to station 24+45.0 on the same shall have a variable width ranging from 45 feet at the former to 28 feet at the latter mentioned station, the above described survey line being the general center line thereof. The bed of the stream as relocated shall meet the bed of the present stream at station 13+45.0.

SECTION 2. The portion of Saw Mill Run Boulevard (formerly Woodruff street), as widened by Ordinance No. 348, approved June 26, 1931, lying between the bed of the stream, as above described, and the northerly line of the right of way of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie and Western Railway Company, and the remaining portions of Woodruff street, as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, lying without the line of the bed of the stream, as above described, shall be used for slopes, retaining walls, appurtenances necessitated by the relocation of the stream and paving.

SECTION 3. The grade of the bed of the stream shall begin at station 0+00.0 on the above described survey line at an elevation of 1,000.0 feet and shall fall at the rate of 1.13 per cent to station 13+45.0 on the above described survey line, to an elevation of 73.35 feet.

SECTION 4. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from the properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

SECTION 5. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be, and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

DEAF EAR GIVEN DIZZY TRADE PROPOSALS

By CARL W. SHATTO

"Of course I realize, Charley, that Gordon Fraser, Whitey Fields and Tory Gregg are very ordinary hockey players, but because you are a particular friend of mine I will be willing to accept those three misfits in exchange for my very valuable and very skillful John J. Dub."

Who is speaking? Almost any manager in the International Hockey League. It is to statements such as this that Charley Reid, coach of the Yellow Jackets, has been listening for the last three days, and to which he is continuing to listen today.

BISONS AFTER PLAYERS

Buffalo has gained three defeats and a tie in its last four starts, and Frank Nighbor, coach of the Bisons, is trying to convince Reid that he really should have Cain, Gauthier or Bogardis, or all three of 'em. Of course, Nighbor doesn't want much in return. Just a few of Pittsburgh's aces.

The next call is from Herb Mitchell, manager of the Windsor Bulldogs. Mitchell will admit that the Bulldogs' net gain in their last five starts is four defeats and a tie. Andy Bellemer, Roy Hinsperger, Eddie Ouellette and George Lever didn't do so well in these games, and so Herb asked waivers on them, but he thinks they should be a big help to Pittsburgh. He will give all four of 'em for only Earl Miller, Doc Romnes and Cliff Barton and Joe Matte.

HAP WANTS BARGAIN

Manager Hap Holmes of the Cleveland Indians, has called several times to inform Reid that he will trade anybody or everybody on the Cleveland team. All he asks is a very good bargain.

Why the sudden desire to swap? It is because Windsor, Cleveland and a few other teams do not feel at all confident of gaining the title play-offs. Coach Reid, too, was quite nervous until the Jackets showed some real class in beating Buffalo here Thursday. But today his attitude is plenty of work for the men he has, and a deaf ear for dizzy trade proposals.

The Jackets are to meet the Olympics in Detroit tomorrow night, and the Bulldogs in Windsor next Tuesday. On Thursday Windsor will appear here, and London's Tecumsehs will invade Pittsburgh next Saturday.

Wind-up of hostilities in the hotly battled Class B campaign commands major interest this afternoon among followers of the destiny of the bi-divisional Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Inter-Club loop race. With Jack Beatty and his pace-setting P. A. A. secondary host fighting to the final ditch to maintain a slender lead over Bill Gordon's crack Edgeworth Club array, enough torrid contesting looms to slip the lower wheel lads the call of the day over their more accomplished brethren of the Class A group.

The Winged Head reserve squad, clinging to one-game margin over the Edgeworth delegation, entertains Keystone A. C. and, in order to assure Red and Gray claim to the crown, must whitewash the clever Keystoners by a 5-0 count. Meanwhile Edgeworth, awaiting a visit from the tail-end Pittsburgh Golf Club quintet, stands a likely winner by a clean-up count. If the Ohio Valleyans can achieve this feat, P. A. A. can drop no more than one match to K. A. C. and still remain in the running for the title.

Class A aggregations tangle in frays that are also apt to have a keen bearing on the championship result. Pittsburgh Golf Club is at home to University Club. The runner-up Keystone crew will play host to the Allegheny Country Club. P. A. A. spends an idle week-end.

CHAPTER XXI.

"Make it snappy—I'll be over as soon as I can clean things out—register under the name of Davis—here's $50—for heaven's sake get yourself together," Daisy's conversation came in rapid-fire staccato. In five minutes she had Ed dressed and started to push him out of the door.

"Just a minute," he hesitated. "I'm not leavin' you here alone—somethin' might happen to you—"

"Here, honey, gimme a kiss and do as I say—hurry now—I can take care of myself," and she pushed him out the door. Then she went to the window and watched on the street below until she saw him leave a bit unsteadily. She threw him a kiss but he did not look up.

Daisy began to toss things out of drawers. She threw several necessary articles into a small over-night bag and kicked the other things about the room. She was just putting on her hat when there was a rap on her door. She glanced at her reflection in fright, then turned and looked at the door.

"Gawd," she exclaimed under her breath, "who is that?"

She shrugged her shoulders and went to the door and threw it wide open. She stepped back in fright. Jim Fitzpatrick, hat in hand, stood there.

"May I come in?" he asked in calm, even tones.

"Sure—sure—come in—but what is it?" she asked quickly.

Jim sauntered in, looking about the disordered room.

"Looks like you're movin'," he exclaimed.

"Yes, this is movin' day—what do you want?"

"Oh, nothing—I just wanted to talk to you a minute—you know who I am? " and he leisurely took his seat on the divan, pushing aside as he did the dress coat and vest which lay there.

"Well, I'm in an awful hurry—gotta make a train—yes, I know who you are," and Daisy paced up and down the room, making a futile and nervous attempt to tidy things.

"Cholo was killed last night," continued Jim in the same quiet voice.

"Cholo killed? You mean Mike Cholo?" and Daisy registered surprise. Jim picked up the newspaper from the couch.

"That's what the paper says," and he eyed her narrowly.

"Oh—oh—I haven't really had time to read the paper—is that true?"

"He liked you a little, didn't he?" asked Jim, tossing the paper aside.

"Don't be funny—not that goof!" exclaimed Daisy indignantly.

"Well, listen, Daisy," said Jim, his voice became serious. "I started to come here to talk to you about my brother. I know you like him, and I know you got some influence over him. I'm not as hard-hearted as you think. I planned to come here and talk about him—to get him straight—but things have happened in the last few hours. And now I want to talk about something else. This Cholo affair—"

"Ed didn't have a thing to do with that, chief," snapped Daisy. "Ed was at that party, yes—but I was with him. I was with him every minute of the time and I know he didn't have nothin' to do with it—an' don't you go hangin' no more phoney raps on him—"

"Daisy," said Jim slowly, fingering his hat, "I did you a good turn once—I'm not the sort of guy who sets a price on things he did—I did it because I thought you had been framed, and found that you had been framed. I want you to tell me the truth, and never say a word to Ed that I spoke to you. From all I hear you like the kid, and I think you'd like to see him do right."

"I'd do anything on earth for him!" exclaimed Daisy, getting out her handkerchief. "I want him to go straight—and I'd sacrifice anything to see that he did. And I feel my debt toward you—"

She began to silently weep and sank down in the chair.

"Well, then, I want you to help me—to help him," said Jim, a tremor in his voice.

"I'll help you—but he didn't clip Cholo," sobbed Daisy. "Give me—give me until tomorrow to get some things straightened out and I'll tell you some things—"

"I'll do it!" exclaimed Jim at the note of sincerity in her voice. "I'll expect you to call me tomorrow." He straightened his hat and arose. He stood a moment, walked over and patted the girl's shoulder, and then went out, softly closing the door.

Daisy Beaumont, small black bag clutched in her hand, hesitated in the entrance of her apartment building and cast apprehensive glances up and down the street. Then she started with quick steps toward the avenue. Half way down, two men, lounging in a doorway stepped out.

"Hello, Daisy—in a hurry?" one of them asked. She shrank back. A car was standing at the curb, motor purring, curtains drawn.

"Leave me alone—leave me alone!" cried Daisy. But each of the men had her by the arm. Before she knew it she had been thrown into the tonneau of the machine and it started forward with a jerk.

"Talkin' to Fightin' Fritz, eh? Buzzin' to the bulls, eh?" and one of the men slapped her across the mouth before she could scream.

* * *

On the wall of the squad room at police headquarters was a large and lurid map, marked off in five sections. Standing in front of it, with a long pointer in his hand, after the manner of an instructor before a class of students, was Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick. Out in front of him were a hundred men, some in plain clothes, and some in uniform.

"Men," came Jim's booming voice, "I'm goin' to clean up this Belmonte mob if it costs me my job! They've gotten away with murder and plenty of it. And I mean murder! This last killing don't bother me so much—they wiped out a rat—a double-crossin' skunk—this Cholo. But that don't matter. Murder is murder. These guys can't bump off anybody they want to. And this killin' gives me the chance I've been lookin' for. Cholo was killed in a Belmonte joint, while a Belmonte mob was hittin' it up, an' it was a Belmonte job. It's all right to let coppers lay back and say, 'Let the hoodlums kill themselves—it's a good riddance.' But I'm out to wreck every joint he's got—and I'm goin' to do it tonight. Are you with me?"

He paused and looked into the grim, determined faces before him. Not a word was spoken. Several nodded, but in the eyes of all was assent. Jim swung around and pointed to the chart.

BEGINS NEXT THURSDAY IN THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

ABOUT 15 YEARS ago a young actor—whom for the purpose of this story I am going to call Frankie Smith—got his first break in vaudeville. A young boy, he had drifted around and attempted to perfect a vehicle with which he might register. He looked about for something that would leave the audience in a certain frame of mind. He had always felt that human interest material was the best material for him. Finally he hit what he wanted.

It was a four-minute routine that arrived at the very end of his act. He waved the American flag a bit, even as Georgie Cohan and so many others had done before him. But it left the audiences with a slight lump in their throats as their hands were beating wildly. And Frankie, who firmly believed in the routine he was doing, was vastly satisfied.

The break came and Frankie was placed second on the bill in a Keith house in New York. The audience cheered him the first day. On the second day Smith found that the bill had been shifted. He now had the feature spot on the bill and did his act next to closing.

The second week Smith was elevated to feature billing and was heralded as a new find. His act, as he admits today, was none too hot. It was the final bit that made him a success—the bit with the heart interest. Smith felt very proud of himself, which was certainly his right.

When the third week rolled around young Smith had been sent to Cleveland to headline the bill out there. At the opening matinee a number of the performers grouped themselves in the wings to get a flash at the work of this youngster who had reached the top in so very short a time.

Included among these performers was a well-known actor who was playing a limited vaudeville engagement. Cynical and caustic, he was none too well liked around Broadway. He watched young Smith work and shook his head sadly.

Smith was a hit that afternoon; just as great a hit as he had been in New York. The finale tied the audience into a knot. Smith, flushed and happy, took numerous bows and then stepped off the stage.

In the wings he saw the actor. "Well, George," he cried, "how did you like it?"

The actor shook his head. After a moment's pause, he spoke.

"Terrible," he said.

Frankie almost fell to the floor. Here he had just registered a terrific hit and this man was telling him he was no good. Frankie forced a feeble smile.

"You're kidding," he murmured hopefully.

The other screwed up his face.

"Listen, kid," he asserted. "When I tell you you're terrible that's exactly what I mean. You're nothing but a ham."

"I—I—I don't understand," stammered Frankie. "They practically cheered me out there. Didn't you like the final bit? The last piece that they liked so much, I mean."

The actor placed a hand on Frankie's shoulder.

"Boy," he said, "you'll never get anywhere doing junk like that. Waving the flag is old business. Handing them the line you just did is the worst of sob stuff.

"Let me tell you something, Smith. I can see you have plenty to learn. If you want to be an actor of some standing, such as I am, you'll have to learn to please the intelligent people rather than the others.

"Try to develop a little polish and class. Cut out the sob stuff and the flag-waving business. Intelligent people can see through it all, and they merely laugh at you. Sob stuff is for fools.

"Get wise to yourself, boy. Maybe you'll amount to something."

Smith went back to his dressing room and placed his head in his hands. The more he thought, the more he worried. The actor was probably right. That final bit was hammy. Class was what he needed. He'd take it out of his act.

He took it out that night. No longer sure of himself, the act flopped miserably. He wanted to put it back the next day—but he couldn't bring himself to do it.

From then on the act was a failure. He had two more weeks routed, and he was again playing second on each bill. When the two weeks were up he was dropped.

And it took Frankie Smith exactly three years to get back to the spot in which he had been sitting securely when an actor gave him advice. . . .

Some four years ago, when Frankie was starring in a Broadway show, a note arrived backstage for him. Tearing it open, he found that it was from the actor who had known so much on that eventful day in Cleveland.

The note was short, but it told the story.

"Dear Frankie," it read. "Things have not been going so well of recent days and I have decided to try a new business for a while. I am going to open a night club.

"I am asking several of my very good friends to help me out with $500 each. I know that you will want to do this for your old pal.

"Please send the money or check back by the messenger who will deliver this. And thank you very much."

Smith wrote out a check for $500 and placed it in an envelope. Then he enclosed the following note:

"Dear George: Here is the $500 you request. A long time ago you told me my material was rotten, and you broke my heart. You told me that the only thing that mattered was pleasing intelligent people.

"I think I'm pleasing intelligent people now, George. And what do you think? I'm using the same type of human interest stuff as the day you told me I was no good.

"But there's no use talking of that now. All I want to know is what has happened to you. You evidently need money badly. Did you get tired of intelligent people—or did they get tired of you?"

The check and Smith's note were sent to the actor by return messenger. The check was cashed.

But the note was never answered . . .

* * *

A CERTAIN ACTOR, more famous in days gone by than today, recently closed in a production that ran but two weeks. After the final curtain fell, the actor struck an attitude before the assembled cast.

"No wonder this production was a failure," he cried. "They surrounded me with a pack of hams. That's what you are—hams!"

He glanced at the actors and strode off the stage.

Shortly afterward this conceited dope was in another production. After two weeks on the road the piece opened in New York. A messenger arrived at his dressing room on the opening night with a large package. Hastily the actor tore it open.

He found therein a huge ham. And on it was a card.

"Dear R. W., it read, "aren't we all?" . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

While there is plenty of fun at the chapter meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Clubs in the Warner neighborhood theaters on Saturday, there are many advantages for the members.

Almost every Saturday there are speakers from educational organizations. The Boy Scouts have given first aid demonstrations; there are talks on public safety, fire prevention, care of the teeth and general health talks.

In many of the chapters classes in dancing are conducted on the stage before the meeting, orchestras and bands have been organized under the leadership of competent instructors, contests in drawings are held.

Parents, recognizing these advantages, often accompany the children to the meetings and make helpful suggestions. Managers of the various theaters welcome their interest and encourage them to attend the meetings.

SPECIAL TREATS

Officers of the Junior Komic Club consist of a Grand Jester (either a boy or girl) and a Board of Governors comprised of three boys and three girls. New officers are elected every four weeks.

Yesterday, the Grand Jesters now in office were brought to the Stanley Theater. As guests of the Sun-Telegraph and Warner Theaters, they saw the feature picture, "Taxi," and the big stage show. Later they were taken back stage to meet the guest star, Chic Sale. Chic was made an honorary member of the club and posed for his picture with all the Grand Jesters. The picture will appear in the Junior Komic Club News in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

At the meetings this morning it was announced that a life size mask of Popeye, that popular comic sailorman, would be published in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. Members have been asked to cut them out, mount them, paint them to their own taste and bring them to the meetings next Saturday.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

The following members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow. The club wishes them many happy returns of the day:

Pattern 2168

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A model with details that slenderize the figure. The unbroken bodice line from neck to skirt seam is most becoming to the larger woman, and the pointed seaming adds length and detracts from hip width. The graceful jabots, in contrasting color, cover the full bust, and carry out the general idea of pointed lines. The sleeves are flared and look very well over arms that may be a bit stout. This frock is lovely in sheer crepe.

Pattern 2168 is obtainable only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch fabric, ½ yard contrasting. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

It will be a joy and a pleasure for Congressman Frisby, away out there in Manchuria, to learn today that his little son, Horcie, Jr., has won the 1932 nation-wide Frisby oratorical contest.

Junior is shown above, with Mister Frisby's honorary secretary. The child is holding the First Prize, which consists of a half dozen genuine wax roses, and a free pass to the Poultry Show to be held in What Cheer, Iowa, in 1939.

Little Horcie's oration developed the theme that this country will not eliminate gin until America adopts an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting bathtubs.

Johnson Would Protect Dollars Roaming Abroad

In recent months the chickens have come home to roost in the realm of international lending.

As a result of the amateurishness and greed of our international bankers, nearly a billion dollars in foreign bonds now in the hands of American investors are in default.

Other failures to meet interest and sinking fund obligations are threatened.

These defaults are IN ADDITION to the frozen short term loans extended by American banks and to the treasury advances to the associated powers, which are subject to the Hoover moratorium.

Though worldwide depression has aggravated the breakdown, the orgy of broken governmental promises, which were uncovered in the Senate investigation, were perhaps a necessary sequel to the earlier debauch in incompetent foreign lending.

Representatives of American banking houses competed among themselves abroad to get foreign interests to borrow American capital.

Actuated by a greed for commissions, rather than by a true sense of fundamental economic needs, high pressured lenders were careless in disposing of OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

Without specific authorization from Congress, the State Department smeared itself with partial moral responsibility by exercizing an extra-legal supervision of such foreign loan operations.

With the confidence of the American investor thus abused, there will be less tendency in the future for the American investment dollar to roam carelessly overseas.

As America becomes adult as a creditor nation, it should act sensibly in surrounding foreign loans with every possible safeguard.

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, on whose resolution the Senate inquiry into foreign loans was made, has wisely recommended to Congress two bills which would place foreign lending under orderly government supervision.

The Senator proposes to set up a foreign loan board, with full power to regulate, restrict, and if necessary, prohibit foreign loans.

The board would consist of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce and the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

The other proposal—which is equally desirable—would require international bankers who float a loan to file a public statement with the Commerce Department, giving all essential data, including profits of the underwriting bankers.

Such doubly effective public supervision will give desirable safeguards to investors.

Free to do as they pleased, investment bankers abused their liberty, and in the light of the present record their freedom should be curtailed.

The public is now paying heavily for the loose methods of financial adventurers, who squandered away their capital.

The Johnson formula, which Congress should adopt, would attempt to make sure that American citizens benefitted from such foreign lending as they chose to engage in.

That represents a new principle in international finance.

Excessive Light Rates

How We Are Overcharged Can Be Seen in New Washington Tariffs.

Reductions in both gas and electric rates are announced at Washington. The public utilities at the national capital are passing along to their customers some of the benefits derived from the lower cost of commodities and services. If the public utilities serving Pittsburgh are wise they, too, will get into step and reduce their rates, some of which are unfairly high, to a more reasonable level.

Beginning Monday, the primary household rate for electricity in Washington will be 3.9 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 50 hours, 3.8 cents for the next 50 hours, and 3 cents for the remainder. As a basis for comparison consider this bill recently rendered by the Duquesne Light Company for a nine-room house: 9 cents per kilowatt hour for the first 19 hours, 6.5 cents for the next 38 hours, 4 cents for the next 57 hours, and 3 cents for the remaining 14 hours.

Is there any reason why electric rates should be higher in Pittsburgh than Washington? With greater and denser population and closer proximity to the sources of fuel and other materials needed by the power companies, Pittsburgh seemingly should be in a more advantageous position for reasonable rates. The long and short of the whole business is that the Duquesne Light Company is gouging the public.

*In return for the franchise, tax exemptions, pro*tection from competition and other favors extended the public utilities by the commonwealth it is expected that they will hold their rates down to a level which will allow them a return of 7 per cent on their investment, and no more. That is a generous return. Many a sound and well-managed commercial enterprise would be only too happy to earn 7 per cent.

*We find from testimony taken by a legislative com*mittee last winter that in 1928 the Duquesne Light Company earned 10.13 per cent, in 1929 it earned 9.66 per cent, and in 1930 it earned 10.08 per cent. And to make matters worse, these excessive earning rates were based on an inflation of the company's investment figures by adding $14,500,000 on the assumption that an additional expenditure of that much would be required to reproduce the plant.

The fighting at Shanghai, with its threat to 5,000 Americans living in the International Settlement there, makes the question of our national defense a particularly timely subject. Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet (retired), former chief of the United States Army Air Corps, will have an important article on the subject in tomorrow's issue of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

*In the Gravure Section of the Sunday Sun-Tele*graph you will find a striking photograph of eight girls of the Carnegie Institute of Technology engaged in fencing practice. You will also find a page of interesting babies and, in the "Remember?" department, some quaint pictures that will bring back memories of long, long ago.

The American Weekly Magazine Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph will be crammed with good things—an article about royal palace luxuries of 4,000 years ago, one on the effect of jazz on digestion, and another entitled "Why Actors Are Queer," being only a few of the more interesting.

What Kind of Rule Is That? -:- By Nelson Harding

"Two strikes an' out," declares this ump
Whose form, though noticeably plump,
Is evidently not as fat
As his official head, at that.

No wonder that the pitcher smirks
To see the way the umpire works,
And if the batter stands for that
He might as well not come to bat.

Marry-Go-Round

The Sweet and Lowdown

An optimist is a modern girl who puts enough pretty things in her hope chest to last until her silver wedding.

* * *

The most successful men are not those who have been inspired by a wise woman's love, but those who have perspired in order to satisfy a capricious woman's vanity.

When a girl marries, she has to trust a man a lot, to give her heart into his keeping. But, just think how a man must trust a girl, these days, when he gives a delicate thing like his stomach into her keeping!

* * *

It is not the fear of being shipwrecked that keeps a bachelor from embarking on the sea of matrimony; it is the awful horror of being becalmed.

* * *

Just about the time when a man ought to begin wearing house-slippers and nursing his arteries, he buys a bottle of hair-tonic, puts on his dancing pumps and capers out in search of a new romance.

* * *

What a man calls his "conscience" in a love-affair is merely a pain in his vanity, the moral ache that accompanies a headache or the hangover that follows an emotional reaction.

Mother was too busy mending Dad's socks and making his favorite kind of pies to have any theories on the matrimonial problem. Somehow, the less you theorize about it and the harder you work at it, the more successful your marriage.

A grub may become a butterfly; but the man who marries a butterfly expecting to turn her into a grub, should remember that nature never works that way.

A bachelor's life is one long solo—usually a hymn of thanksgiving.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Go ahead, coax your head off, but the only way I'll attend another party is for the host or hostess to come after me and lead me to the festivities. Twice in as many weeks I've knocked at doors of wrong houses and received the frozen gaze of caribou-faced butlers.

Outside of a dowager squinting through a lorgnette, nothing awes me so pluperfectly as the calm self-sufficience of a butler. If he's in knee pants, add the gulps and a shake of the tibia. And if he's wearing a powdered wig, I let out a piercing shriek and pitty-pat off like a startled gazelle.

Am I butler conscious? I often dream of walking up to one of those Fifth avenue mansions with a porticullis, buzzing the button and when one of the side-whiskered mugs comes to the door, slap him smack in the pan with a loose custard pie and toddle down the steps like Chaplin.

But what I started out to relate was the mix-up at the most recent party. It was at Judge and Helen Young's, and quaintly enough I got into the right house, but I got there 24 hours too early, having read the invitation hurriedly and misplaced it.

Prettying myself up, giving a romantic and high school brush to my hair, of which I have almost a complete set, I presented myself to the missus. "Are you certain it is today?" she inquired. "No." I replied in my cutting way, "it is next autumn, but I want to drop in to tell them we are coming."

She smoothed things over: "All right, all right, Mr. Addison Simms, just so you remember." And so we got going, circling through Central Park and heading for an address in the East Sixties. After a time, from her: "I had an idea somehow it was a tea."

* * *

"It was a dinner," curtly, the left hand beginning to clench. "And it would please me," I added in the grand manner, "if you would this once permit me to think for the family. There are persistent rumors I'm a whole notch above sub-normal."

* * *

Arriving, I chirped to the telephone girl—and a cute number, too—"The Judge Youngs, if you will." She announced us and up we shot in the elevator. In the foyer hall my wife remarked: "I don't hear voices." To which I replied: "You wouldn't." A maid let us in.

* * *

We deposited wraps and strolled into an empty living room, so quiet you could hear the clock tick. There is a silly staccato chatter of editorial rooms we indulge in festive moments. So from her: "Visiting Columnist Receives Big Ovation." I replied tartly: "It happens we arrived early." And I sank into a cushioned chair and began skimming through a book. From her again: "You are sure it was today." That got me! "If you ask that once more," I yelled, "I'm going to vault out a window." Silence and a blase effort to read a magazine upside down. Accompanied by a fresh outcropping of the foot taps.

* * *

In about 20 minutes the maid peeked in. "Were Judge and Mrs. Young expecting you?" she cooed. "They shouldn't have asked us if they didn't," replied the venerable fun lover. But I was becoming irked. In fact I became general headquarters for all the loose irk in the neighborhood. But there was no use taking it out on the maid. So brightly: "We accepted the Judge Youngs' invitation to dinner." She replied: "That is tomorrow, and it is not a dinner, it is a tea."

* * *

From the missus: "City Chap in Social Blunder." I tried to pass it off in an outburst of giggles that suggested a cawing raven. You know, this is a good one on me, haw! haw! haw! But I wasn't able to snigger her over to my side. She had developed irk trouble herself. She said to the maid: "Please tell the Judge Youngs that a prominent nit-wit thought their tea tomorrow was a dinner today." And she flounced out of the room with me padding along in her trail, humming, and I can hum when I put my mind to it.

* * *

Home through the park again in that ominous quiet so often presagenting a tornado. Dinner consisted of a few sly snaffles from the ice box. A moment ago I stuck my head in the room where she is reading to headline: "Wonder Kiddie Faw Down!" But she looked too, you know. So I tiptoed away. And here I am.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

There is that magnificent line in the play "Grand Hotel" . . . perhaps you remember it—

It is in the gambling scene where Kringelein, for the first time in his life, tastes the glorious champagne of success. Poor, shambling, ignorant Kringelein . . . whose years have been spent in starveling drudgery . . . and who, now that death is close upon him, comes to Berlin for his one clutch at happiness. There is a terrible fear in Kringelein's simple eyes—THE FEAR THAT HE SHALL NOT KNOW LIFE BEFORE HE LOSES IT. So, lumping all his poor savings in one desperate throw, Kringelein tries to find life in the Grand Hotel.

Oh, the joy of it! The madness of it! These deep, soft carpets! These shining, tiled baths! That fragrant air . . . the eager, insinuating blur of sound, coming and going, whispering of joy and power which Kringelein has never known . . . the inviting eyes . . . the proud, imposing footsteps—

It is his at last! He, too, can be part of the Grand Hotel. Or—can he? Dare he take all this? Even with money, dare he take it? A little while ago, sitting in that shabby country room, after the doctor had told him he was shortly to die, he had thought that money, alone, was necessary. But now he has the money and he finds it is not enough. Something more is needed—something much more. Courage is needed. He, who has never been anything, must have the courage to believe that he can be happy . . . the courage to take happiness. It is there—if he will take it . . . all that shining adventure for which he has longed, so pitifully. But dare he throw himself into it? Is there enough imagination in him . . . enough hope and faith . . . enough courage TO TAKE WHAT IS HIS RIGHT?

There is! He does! And out of his ecstasy, out of his triumph over his own fear, Kringelein cries—

"LIFE IS WONDERFUL! LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL! BUT ONE MUST HAVE THE COURAGE FOR IT!"

And as he cries he holds aloft his winnings, those winnings which are the fruit of his courage . . . which are the inevitable reward for all those who have the "courage for life"—

FOR KRINGELEIN IS ALL OF US.

Kringelein is you, in your restlessness and discontent, in your desperate clutch at happiness, in your terrible fear that you will not know life before you lose it.

"I am thoroughly dissatisfied with my room!" cries Kringelein over and over, rebelling against the shabby corner in which they have placed him. And at last, by the very intensity of his cry, he forces them to give him a better room. He is a little afraid of that room at first. It is too grand! BUT HE DARES TO BE GRAND!

And you, too, cry—"I am thoroughly dissatisfied with my room!"—rebelling against the shabby corner in which life has placed you. And, like Kringelein, you may force life to give you a better room. BUT HAVE YOU THE COURAGE TO TAKE IT?

The room you are in is shabby—but you are used to it. You hate it—but you feel safe in it. And it also gives you a chance to be sorry for yourself . . . to make yourself seem important by being a martyr. Have you the courage to give up that safe, accustomed shabbiness . . . to give up your laziness and cowardice, your resentment and self-pity . . . and move into a better room, with its strangeness, its loneliness, its new, demanding grandeur?

Do you dare to be grand?
Do you dare to be different?
Do YOU DARE TO LIVE?

Winston Churchill, 'Eminent Individuals'

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era," and other important works. Now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Winston Churchill, the English statesman, returning from his sojourn in Nassau to New York City, makes an attack on our democratic institutions and assures us that the people should leave off interfering with the governing of themselves and let some "eminent persons" do the job. For Mr. Chuchill, with an aristocratic concept of society, prefers a dictatorship. He is quite sure that all our trouble is due to the "harassed politicians" who rule us, and that "eminent individuals," unhampered by the people, would have done a better job.

Perhaps it would astonish our distinguished visitor, with such a poor opinion of the people's right to determine for themselves the form of government they wish, to know that our great trouble in this country during the last 11 years has been that "eminent individuals" have been in possession of the instrumentalities of the state and have used them for the selfish ends of "eminent individuals." Under the forms of democracy we have had a financial oligarchy, and we have no doubt that the "eminent individual," Mr. Mellon, has had more to do with the policies that have reached full flower in economic ruin than the people or the "politicians"—among whom, by the way, ill-natured gossip has always counted Mr. Churchill himself.

We hope the English politician, who is also an "eminent individual" because of his histories and the biography of his father, was not reflecting upon President Hoover. For Mr. Hoover was not a dreadful "politician," and it must be clear now that he was not a "statesman," but he was one of the "eminent individuals" to whom Mr. Churchill must have referred.

* * *

A Bit Confusing

But Mr. Churchill says some good and true things too. Thus:

"The progress of the world is dependent on eminent individuals. It has never been ground out by political machines. It is a great delusion to think that the people have the kind of government that they want in any country in the world now. They have got the kind of government they vote for, and are told they want."

There is much truth in this, and yet, from the advocate of dictatorships by "eminent individuals," it is a bit confusing. For the people, the democracy, have "eminent individuals" ruling them with a rod of iron in Italy and Russia; and, according to Mr. Churchill, the people in these countries "do not have the kind of government that they want;" and certainly they do not have these governments by "eminent individuals" because "they voted for them."

They have them because these "eminent individuals" have "political machines" more arbitrary and powerful than any political machines in any country operating under democratic forms.

If Hitler, an "eminent individual" of Germany, threatens to overthrow the democratic republic of his country it is because of the power of his "political machine."

* * *

Tired of the Plucking

To find language like Mr. Churchill's among Americans in political life we must go back to the formative days of the republic before the triumph of Jefferson had, in the language of Henry Cabot Lodge, "definitively determined that this should be a democratic republic." The old Federalist group were quite as contemptuous of the people, and baldly scouted the idea that the average man should be permitted to stick his nose into the affairs of the government set over him by "eminent individuals."

These "eminent individuals" of ours were firmly convinced that governments are instituted among men for the financial profit of "eminent individuals;" and that the people should be kept in their place by sedition laws. The people thought otherwise; they soon tired of the plucking.

* * *

Congress Is Always Interfering

We can only interpret Mr. Churchill's views to mean that government should be by "eminent individuals" and not by laws. This ultimately means but one thing—dictatorships.

There are many Americans, mostly "eminent" who want this sort of thing. The persistent propaganda by the enemies of American institutions against Congress comes from these. For Congress is always interfering with the plans of exploitation by "eminent individuals" in the financial and industrial world.

It has exposed and checked—we are sure it has not yet killed—more than one conspiracy of exploitation hatched by "eminent individuals" during the last 10 years. Some of the "eminent" have gone to jail as a result, but not nearly enough.

We have 30,000,000 people on the farms of America who have been brought to ruin by the policies of "eminent individuals" operating as the real government though "invisible." Just now the Senate is making another mess of the rule by "eminent individuals" in investigating South American loans. If the mere people bought up many millions in bonds now defaulted it is because "eminent individuals" made great commissions on the fraud, and these individuals were able to create the impression that the government of the United States had approved the loans. Peru and Colombia are very interesting to Americans just now.

* * *

Our 'Eminent Individuals'

But we wonder if Mr. Churchill's outburst against American democracy is not due in large measure to the interference of Congress and the people with the plan of "eminent individuals" to transfer the debts of 14 nations from the European nations that "hired the money" to the backs of the American people—in the interest of our international bankers who must be "eminent individuals."

Evidently M. Laval, the French Premier, who thought he had the bird in the hand after his secret conversations with Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson, has just made a suggestion that some temporary device be adopted "until after the American elections."

If this means anything to us it means this: That the administration in power which must submit itself to the vulgar herd—the kind of people that Lincoln thought well of—in an election, and that for it to carry out the plan of "eminent individuals" now would mean its pulverization in the elections, and that by fooling the people during the campaign and through the election, a government indifferent to public opinion and subservient to "eminent individuals" may be returned to power.

* * *

There Are Politicians And Politicians

The truth is that the world's plight today is due, not to the stupidities of politicians so much as to the greed and stupidities of "eminent individuals." Politicians of a sort have played their part—in acting as mere agents of the "eminent individuals" who are too pure for politics. For there are politicians and politicians; some vicious, and some inspired by the highest ideals of service to all the people. And the real count in the indictment against democracy is that so many of the people are unable to differentiate.

Too many, as Mr. Churchill with proper contempt says, "get the kind of government they are told they want." Too often they are divided against themselves by prejudices and passions, tossed to them by "eminent individuals" just as a porch climber will throw bones to watchdogs to occupy them with each other while the house is robbed.

If the rule of the people is destroyed, and if, with the power in their possession, the people permit themselves to be reduced in government to hewers of wood and drawers of water, the verdict will be that democracy failed because the brains of the people would rattle in a mustard seed. In that event, of course, we shall have the rule of "eminent individuals"—perhaps the Stalins, perhaps the Hitlers.

Mr. Churchill we admire enormously as an "eminent individual" who has written the greatest English political biography in 40 years, an autobiography as fascinating as a Dumas novel, and marvelous war histories; but we are not ready to accept his view of the virtues of a dictatorship.
